Pair of Traffic Fatalities in Sullivan County

Two Area Drownings Mar Holiday Weekend

By WALTER S. CLARK

WEST HURLEY

With the Fourth of July holiday weekend past the half-way mark and the homeward-bound crush of motorists yet to come, area authorities reported two drownings at Ashokan Reservoir Spillway Falls and two traffic fatalities that occurred in Sullivan County.

Traffic deaths in the nation had passed the 400 mark—near the halfway point of the estimate that predicted between 800 and 900 persons would die during the holiday observance.

Victims of the two drownings that occurred in about the same area of the Spillway Falls within an hour on Sunday were identified by authorities as Brian Sibus, 15, of Wicthtree Road, Woodstock, and Thomas McConnell, 25, of Massapequa.

Authorities said Sibus was swimming below the Spillway Falls at about 3:45 p.m. when a strong undertow of the rushing waters sucked him below the surface. His head and body apparently had been beaten against the rocks by the flow of water.

Sibus was carried 500 yards downstream, where he was spotted by Stephen Craft of Mt. Marion Park, who entered the water and pointed out the body to Corporal Walter Baschnagel and Deputy Joseph Bilotti. Both officers waded waist deep through the water and carried the youth to shore. The West Hurley Rescue Squad was summoned and administered artificial respiration.

The youth was taken to Benedictine Hospital and pronounced dead at 5:30 p.m.

Later in the afternoon, McConnell reportedly dove from a ledge below the falls. The rush of water carried him about a half mile downstream where the victim was recovered by two friends, John Rodriguez and William Harrison.

McConnell was given first aid by Hurley State Police and the West Hurley Rescue Squad. He was taken to Benedictine Hospital and pronounced dead. BCI and uniformed troopers investigated.

Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser investigated both drownings.

Sullivan County authorities Sunday night chalked up the 14th traffic death of 1972 after a Massachusetts man was killed when his car went out of control on the Quickway near the community of Harris. Two other persons riding in the car were injured, but they were not immediately identified by State Police.

The victim of the holiday weekend fatality was Elijah Ried, 64, of Dorchester, Mass. Dr. Ralph S. Breakey, Sullivan County coroner, said following an investigation that the man died of a crushed chest.

The vehicle was traveling along the Quickway when the driver for some reason lost control as the car ran along the left shoulder, careened across the pavement and slammed into an embankment. Reid was pinned beneath the wreckage of the vehicle.

Monticello firemen were dispatched to the scene to wash gasoline from the highway and stoochy until the wrecked car was towed away.

Another fatal traffic accident in Sullivan County occurred Saturday at about 9 p.m. on Old Route 17 in Wurtsboro.

State Police at Ferndale identified the dead man as Anthony P. Ferdon, 50, of the community of New Hampton. Police said Ferdon was driving his car along the highway when he lost control of the vehicle which rolled down an embankment, pinning him beneath the wreckage which landed in a small stream.

Sullivan County Coroner Sydney P. Schiff withheld a verdict as to the cause of the man's death. Police investigators said the driver of the car may have drowned.

A passenger in Ferdon's car, 18-year-old Kenneth Hopkins of Masten Lake, was taken to Horton Memorial Hospital in Middletown for treatment. His injuries were not immediately noted.

S. Vietnamese, Reds Duel Two Miles From Quang Tri

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese and Communist forces, Sunday over the Haiphong-Hanoi area. UPI photographer Willie Vico said government paratroopers in today's Quang Tri City fighting, 32 miles north of Hue, were backed by allied jets, helicopters and heavy B52 bombers. The B52s overnight dumped more than 500 tons of explosive on the approaches to Quang Tri City. The city and the province of the same name were captured a month after the Communist offensive began March 30 in South Vietnam and have been in North Vietnamese hands ever since.

In the air war over North Vietnam, the U.S. command said U.S. jet fighter-bombers destroyed a coal treatment building near the country's major port city of Haiphong, dropped a span on a bridge near Vinh and bombed an oil storage area south of the Chinese border.

The command in a delayed report said a U.S. Navy A7 fighter-bomber crashed "from unknown causes" June 18 on a night mission over North Vietnam about 107 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) separating the two Vietnams and listed the pilot as missing. A Communist radio broadcast claimed today two U.S. jets were shot down allied fears that the North Vietnamese would try to overrun the city while its defenses are stripped by the government drive to retake neighboring Quang Tri Province.

With growing confidence, South Vietnam's battered forces are striking back, AP News Analysis on page 24.

UPI correspondent Barney Seibert said an undetermined number of 122mm rockets hit Hue today but there was no immediate report of casualties. Sunday's rocket and artillery barrage of 80 shells that killed 12 persons and wounded 41 marked the first such attack on Hue since the start of the offensive.

Allied commanders noted following Sunday's shelling that the South Vietnamese force of about 30,000 men guarding the city was reduced to the 10,000 troops of the 1st Infantry Division last week for the northward drive into Quang Tri, now in its sixth day. The push, they said, might leave Hue vulnerable to an all-out Communist drive and today's shelling bolstered that possibility.

The U.S. command beat by one day President Nixon's deadline of lowering U.S. troop strength to below 49,000 men in South Vietnam by June 30, spokesmen said today.

The command last week withdrew 6,000 men from its Vietnam-based U.S. force to beat the Friday deadline by a single day, spokesmen said.

Military sources said about 1,300 of the U.S. servicemen were simply transferred to neighboring Thailand, where they were assigned to aid in air war over Indochina.

Spokesmen said that as last Thursday, there were 48,000 Americans based in South Vietnam. Nixon had ordered U.S. troop strength to below 49,000 by Friday. In addition to the Vietnam-based Americans, approximately 55,000 airmen are based in Thailand and Guam, and another 42,000 men are serving offshore with U.S. 7th Fleet aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers and other warships.

U.S. officers said Air Force strength in Vietnam dropped last week by 1,400 men to a total of 13,100. They said about 1,000 of the airmen "withdrawn" simply switched to Thai bases.

Another 300 Marine airmen also were pulled out of Vietnam, reducing the number of leathernecks to 2,200. All of those who left South Vietnam went to Thailand, the officers said.

The U.S. Army in Vietnam lost 4,000 men from its rolls last week, spokesmen said, and now has 31,200. Navy strength dropped by 300 to 2,200. The strength of the U.S. Coast Guard remained steady at 100.

Military spokesmen said that the strength of U.S. forces in Vietnam last week was the lowest since April 1965, when there were 36,000 U.S. servicemen based there.

Passenger Kills Viet Skyjacker

SAIGON (UPI)—A month ago was on the last leg of its San Francisco-Guam-Manila-Saigon flight. He sent a note to the pilot, Capt. Gene Vaughn, died attempting to hijack a Pan American 747 to North Vietnam Hanoi.

When Vaughn, 53, of Scottsdale, Ariz., did not immediately comply he sent another note written in his own blood while in college, took a saying "you have failed to stewardess hostage while the comply with my first demand. The blood indicates how serious

I am about being taken to Hanoi."

Instead, Vaughn brought the plane into Saigon airport and went back to negotiate with Binh. At a press conference later he told what happened: "When we landed at Saigon airport I told the military under no circumstances to allow the aircraft to depart. I'd already made my decision.

"The man was standing in the rear most part of the airplane holding one of the stewardesses hostage. He said, 'Don't come any closer because if you do I'll blow this airplane up.'"

"I told him, 'We have a language problem. I can't understand you too well. Let me come closer.' I moved about two feet closer and saw my opportunity to jump him."

Vaughn, a 200-pounder, grabbed Binh and several other passengers rushed to his help. "I shouted 'Kill the son of a bitch!' and the passenger put five bullets into him right there while I was holding him by the throat," Vaughn said.

"I want to tell you something," Vaughn added. "I took that fellow by the back of his neck and legs and threw him right out of that aircraft. He was already dead. We knew that."

"I just felt it was offensive to have him anywhere near that plane. I must have had the strength—I felt he had the weight of a Ping-Pong ball when I threw him out."

The passenger who shot Binh at close range with the high-powered .357 magnum pistol was not identified, but he was believed to be a former San Francisco area policeman en route to Vietnam to work as a security guard with an American firm. Vaughn said the passenger had checked his pistol when boarding the plane but was given it back when the hijacking started.

Binh had a knife with a 10-inch blade and two lemons wrapped in tinfoil which he said were bombs. Vaughn said that Binh told him he was taking the plane to Hanoi as an act of revenge because "your bombers have wrought havoc on our people."

The stewardess held by Binh, May Huen, said later "the hijacker was very nice to me...I felt sorry to see him ended in such a disastrous way."

Alleged Plot Against Cuba Foiled

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A plot U.S. officials say was aimed at overthrowing a foreign country—apparently Communist Cuba—has been revealed in the arrest of nine persons in a $465,000 munitions smuggling scheme.

Allegedly stretching from New York to Louisiana, Texas and Mexico, the plot came to light with the arrests Saturday. In addition, nearly seven tons of plastic explosives were seized in a DC4 transport plane at Shreveport, La., federal agents said.

U.S. Atty. Gerald Galligan house said Sunday federal officials "have no reason to believe that the munitions were destined for any country other than Cuba."

The complaint charging two of the men, Murray Kessler of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Adler B. Seal of Baton Rouge, La., alleged they "knew and believed that this material would be used in an attempted overthrow of a foreign nation." The two men were arrested near the New Orleans International Airport.

The nine were charged with conspiring to smuggle the explosives from the United States to Mexico for future shipment to a third country.

Among those arrested were Richmond Harper, a prominent South Texas rancher-banker, and Marion Hegler, a former inspector with the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. They were taken into custody at Eagle Pass, Tex., where they reside, then released on $25,000 bond each.

The federal complaint alleges Kessler agreed last Wednesday to sell to Diaz 13,500 pounds of C-4 plastic explosives, 7,000 feet of primacord, 2,600 electrical blasting caps and 25 electrical detonators for $430,000.

In addition, it alleges that another $35,000 was to be paid for flying the explosives to an airfield near Vera Cruz, Mexico.

The complaint said that last Friday "Kessler told Carlos (Diaz) that he had no M16 rifles, but he had the C-4 as per their agreement."

A rental aircraft was flown that afternoon from Hammond, La., to Shreveport, the complaint said. "A rental van then went to the South Western Pipe Co. in Shreveport and then picked up 13,500 pounds of a plastic explosive commonly known as C-4," the complaint said.

"The explosive was then transported back to the site where the DC4 aircraft was being kept and per an agreement between Kessler and Diaz, the explosives were loaded onto the aircraft," it said. Federal agents then moved in.

"I told him, 'We have a language problem. I can't understand you too well. Let me come closer.' I moved about two feet closer and saw my opportunity to jump him."

Vaughn, a 200-pounder, grabbed Binh and several other passengers rushed to his help. "I shouted 'Kill the son of a bitch!' and the passenger put five bullets into him right there

BOBBY FISCHER

Tuesday Deadline For Bobby Fischer

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI)—Bobby Fischer's time runs out at 8 a.m. EDT Tuesday.

Fischer, the 29-year-old Brooklyn chess genius, must turn up in Reykjavik by then or lose the right to challenge Soviet titleholder Boris Spassky for the world championship, a match that has generated wider interest than any chess game in history.

Fischer, apparently bargaining for more money, was hiding out in New York while the great debate of "will he show up or won't he?" raged.

The 24-game series was to have started Sunday. But when Fischer didn't show the president of the International Chess Federation (FIDE), Dr. Max Euwe, announced that he was postponing the deadline until noon Tuesday (8 a.m. EDT). If Fischer does not appear for the drawing of lots scheduled for that time, he will be disqualified and lose his right to challenge the 35-year-old Russian for the world chess title.

An Icelandic friend of Fischer, Freystrinn Thorbergsen, flew to New York Sunday to try to persuade the American grand master to return with him. He said he was acting as "a friend of Bobby Fischer" and said only "I know where to find him."

Fischer, who has kept the Icelandic organizers nervously rushing to Keflavik international airport to meet every flight from New York for a week, simply did not show up Sunday.

Officially there was no explanation. He has not been in touch with the Icelandic Chess Federation or FIDE since he sent a cable through the U.S. Chess Federation some time back saying he would show up for the match "under protest."

Four times since then, Fischer has canceled bookings on flights to Iceland.

The Icelandic federation, which stands to lose much money if the match does not come off, pleaded for Fischer Sunday and convinced Euwe to postpone the start of the match 48 hours to give Fischer a last chance.

All That 'Pot' Sent to Albany Lab

WOODSTOCK, N.Y. — According to police, Woodstock's summertime supply of marijuana has been moved to a State Police lab in Albany; the man police accuse of transporting the illicit weed from Mexico waits in the Ulster County Jail for a Wednesday court appearance.

Police still believe that the haul they made Saturday in the Town of Woodstock is the largest in New York State's history. Troopers confiscated 822 pounds of 'high quality' marijuana valued at between $200,000 and $500,000.

Figuring five "joints" to a bag, and one ounce for every ten bags, an estimated 600,000 cigarettes could have been rolled with the marijuana seized Saturday.

State Police BCI Investigator John F. Salters said today that police believe that the marijuana was to have comprised the bulk of Woodstock's supply of grass for this summer.

The police were assisted in their investigation by a fortutous fire that broke out in a home on Chestnut Hill Road Saturday afternoon. Volunteer firemen, while battling the blaze, noticed a "suspicious vegetable matter" on the floor of the building.

Town of Woodstock Police Chief William Waterous was called to the scene, where he arrested the owner of the house, 22-year-old Derek Lane Humble, on a drug possession charge, after it was determined that the "vegetable matter" was, in fact, unprocessed marijuana.

State Police were then called to the scene. They obtained a warrant to search a camper pickup truck parked near the house. The camper was virtually overflowing with bags and boxes of marijuana.

Police said the marijuana was transported to Woodstock from Mexico. U. S. Customs agents joined the investigation today in an attempt to determine how the marijuana was carried across the border.

It is believed that the marijuana arrived in Woodstock only recently, and that it was due to be processed and divided for distribution among a network of dealers in the Woodstock area.

The marijuana was moved to Albany Sunday, where it will undergo analysis in a State Police laboratory. An exact estimate of the drug's wholesale value won't be made until the analysis is completed.

Humble, meanwhile, remains confined in the Ulster County Jail. He will appear before Town of Woodstock Justice Kevin M. Sweeney Wednesday night to answer the third degree drug possession charge. Bail has not been set.

Although the price of marijuana fluctuates in accordance with supply and demand, police said that the drugs seized Saturday could have grossed area distributors an estimated half million dollars.

Highland Defeat Death Knell For Anti-Drug Abuse Film Plan

By WADE BURKHART

HIGHLAND — The recent defeat of a proposal that the Highland School District provide $1,000 for the Lloyd Narcotics Guidance Council has probably killed a planned film program in the district's middle and elementary schools, according to the head of the council.

Frank Backus, Lloyd NGC head, said the defeat of Proposition 3 by district voters, which would have given the council money, was "very disappointing."

School district voters rejected

all three propositions and the proposed school budget by solid margins.

The middle and elementary school program would have used anti-drug abuse films in those schools. Backus said the council does not have the funds to carry it out now.

The loss of the $1,000 does not kill the whole program in the schools. Backus said the council would still carry on its group discussion program in the high school.

The council received $1,000 from the state. Backus said this has been expended in training 20 people for about 20 hours each to lead the discussion groups.

"I'm amazed people are so out of it that they don't realize the seriousness of the problem we have," Backus said.

Backus did not consider Thursday's negative vote to be a vote against the drug program, but rather a reaction against the school budget in general.

He said if the proposition had passed, it would have cost the district's residents about 30 cents each. "I'm very disappointed people could be so narrow-minded," he said.

McGovern Group Seeks Credentials Overturn

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Supporters of Sen. George S. McGovern said they would go to U.S. District Court today, seeking to overturn a Democratic Credentials Committee decision that took away 151 of his national convention delegates.

District Judge George L. Hart Jr. scheduled a hearing this morning on a suit filed by California delegation backers of McGovern.

They argue that the Credentials Committee acted unconstitutionally last week when it set aside California's winner-take-all primary election rule and decreed the 271 delegates should be apportioned on the basis of percentages of the popular vote received by each candidate.

McGovern finished first in the June 6 primary.

The committee decision could block a McGovern first ballot nomination at the convention, which starts in Miami Beach a week from today.

Stephen Reinhardt, Democratic national committeeman from California and a co-chairman of the state delegation, said McGovern approved the legal move.

"He told us he thinks we are doing the right thing," Reinhardt said.

In Los Angeles, California delegates for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, who were selected after the Credentials Committee decision, said they were not concerned about the court suit or a potential convention floor fight over seating of their slate.

Eugene Wyman, Humphrey's top fund raiser in California, said that "it's awfully late for a judge to get involved in it." He said the decision would be appealed if the district judge rules in favor of the McGovern backers.

Earlier Sunday, in a television interview, McGovern said he had not "the slightest doubt" that the full convention would reverse the Credentials Committee decision. He said the convention was going to be "the most open, the least bossed" in American history, and he said he was convinced he was going to be the nominee.

But whether I am the nominee or not, if the process is fair, as I fully expect it will be, I will be backing the party," McGovern said.

McGovern by the statement appeared to back still further away from his hint last week that he might bolt the party if the California delegates he lost were used to deprive him of the nomination.

McGovern was interviewed on the ABC television program "Issues and Answers."

He said he wanted Lawrence F. O'Brien to remain as chairman of the Democratic National Committee after the convention. O'Brien, who already is in Miami Beach, thanked McGovern for a "generous expression of confidence in me" but added that "I must maintain my neutral role" until the nomination is made.

McGovern said he wanted to call on AFL-CIO President George Meany within the next few days and assure Meany "that I both welcome and need his help." Meany is believed to have played a key role in the Credentials Committee action on California.

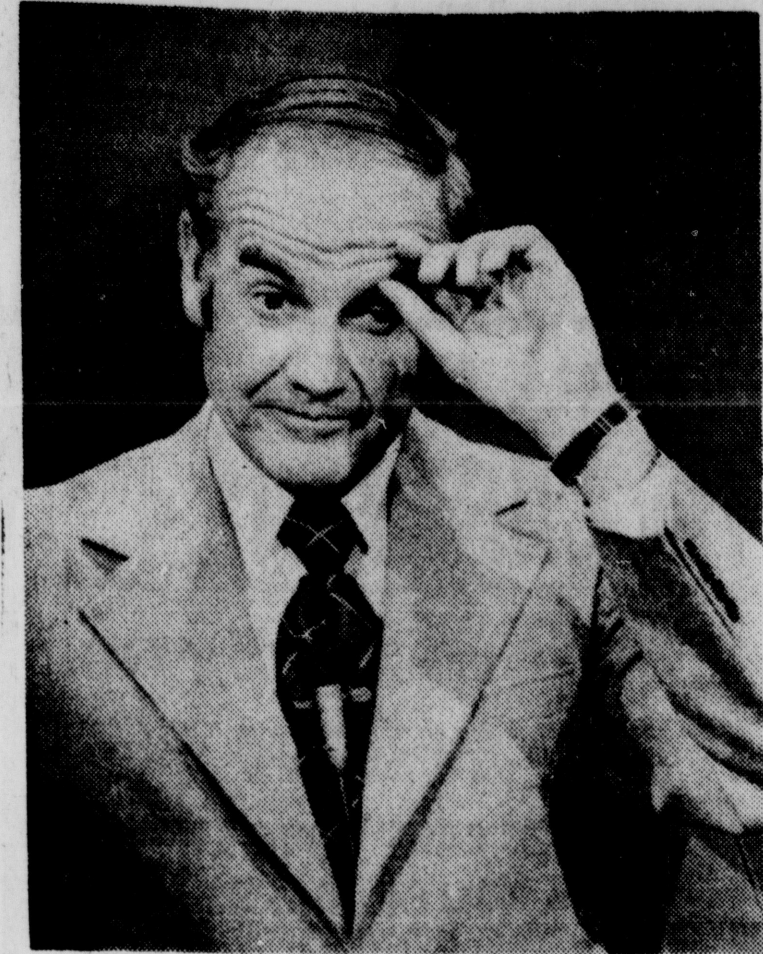

The South Dakota senator said he had not ruled out the possibility of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy being his running mate if he is nominated, but he said he was inclined to believe Kennedy "probably means it" when he says that he will not be a candidate for national office in 1972.

The Credentials Committee was continuing its work in Washington today, hearing challenges in the selection of delegates from North Carolina, Alaska, Washington, Texas and Oklahoma.

Sunday the committee approved compromises that adjusted some of the votes in the Michigan, Maryland and Virginia delegations.

FREEMAN ADS BRING RESULTS

SEES REVERSAL — Sen. George McGovern, appearing on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers" Sunday in Washington, D. C., said he is "positive in my own mind" that the convention will reverse the Democratic credentials committee decision and return to him the full California delegates he won in the winner-take-all primary. The South Dakota presidential hopeful called the credentials panel's action "a plain perversion of justice," but said on the other hand "I am fully convinced it will be a good convention." (UPI)

Nixon Leaves Spotlight to Dems

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon, buoyed by polls showing him leading all his likely opponents, plans to leave the spotlight to the squabbling Democrats and spend the next two weeks quietly mapping his own re-election strategy.

White House aides said today he still would rely heavily for political advice on former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, who stepped down over the weekend as his campaign chief.

Mitchell, who engineered Nixon's successful 1968 effort and left the Justice Department several months ago to manage the campaign, resigned under pressure from his wife after she threatened to leave him if he didn't. He planned to return to his New York City law practice but will be available as a consultant.

The President Sunday conferred by telephone with both Mitchell and his successor, Clark MacGregor, a five-term congressman from Minnesota who lost a bid for the Senate in 1960 to Hubert Humphrey and has served on the White House staff since then as chief liaison with Congress.

Nixon was reported pleased by results of the latest Gallup and Harris Polls which show him substantially ahead of all Democratic contenders. Aides said he planned to keep a low profile during the next two weeks in order not to detract public attention in anyway from the intraparty fighting among the Democrats.

The President arrived here Saturday for a 2½ week stay at the Western White House. He was joined by two close personal friends, C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo of Key Biscayne, Fla., and Robert H. Abplanalp of Bronxville, N.Y.

The three flew to Los Angeles by helicopter Sunday night for dinner at a restaurant there. Mrs. Nixon, who attended a folk dance festival in Chicago Sunday, joined her husband at his ocean-side villa Sunday night.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said Nixon planned to spend most of his time meeting with Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, his chief foreign policy strategist, and other aides. Nixon and Kissinger will be conferring on the negotiating posture the United States will take when the Vietnam talks resume in Paris July 13.

Kissinger's top assistant on the National Security Council staff, Maj. Gen. Alexander Haig, was in Saigon today talking with U.S. and South Vietnamese officials and will report to the President Tuesday or Wednesday.

Martha Rejoices Now, but . . .

WASHINGTON (UPI) — long. I am calling surreptitious. Martha Mitchell rejoices that her husband has gotten out of full-time politics, but she still says she is a "political prisoner."

Mrs. Mitchell made another call to this reporter Sunday and gave her reaction to the announcement of her husband, John N. Mitchell, Saturday that he was leaving his job as chairman of the committee to re-elect President Nixon.

"Sure, that's what I wanted," she said when asked how she viewed the resignation.

But she spoke in a low voice, did not talk long, and hung up the telephone abruptly.

"I'm still a political prisoner," she said. "I can't talk

Deputies Investigate Burglaries

Three burglaries reported to the sheriff's office over the weekend were under investigation today. One entry was at a Port Ewen Church rectory.

Corporal Walter Baschnagel said during the absence of the pastor of the Church of the Presentation on Hoyt Street, Port Ewen, Saturday night someone entered the rectory through the unlocked front door and allegedly made off with $300 that had been left on a desk. Deputies Bruce Quick and Gerald Keller investigated.

Two men are sought by the sheriff's office for questioning in connection with a burglary Saturday night at Charlie's Arco service station on Route 32 in Rosedale. Deputy Angel Baez reported a side door was pried open and two tires were stolen. The men were seen running from the building and they left in a car that was last seen heading in the direction of DeWitt Mills Road.

Corporal Baschnagel also reported the back door of a truck loaded with frozen vegetables from Canada was pried open as it was parked at Caldor's lot in the Town of Ulster. The seals had been ripped from the lock. Allegedly stolen were 11 cases of frozen vegetables valued at $95.64. The truck had been left in the parking lot by Cecil Bankenship, whose address was not noted on a police report.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices were mixed in today's stock market in light trading.

On the New York Stock Exchange advancing stocks took a small edge over declining issues, but the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off fractionally.

The market found itself in a post-weekend, pre-holiday session which few analysts expected to show much vitality.

Some observers calculated that a small rally on Friday was a signal that investors' worries over the international monetary situation were easing up. Glamour stocks were among the leaders in the Friday trading.

Friday's small-gauge rally lifted the Dow average 2.78 to 929.03, and advanced led declines 3 to 2. It came on the heels of six straight sessions in which the Dow declined and losers were ahead of gainers.

For the week, the indicator was off 15.66. In the month of June it slid 31.69 points.

MTA Assets Show Increase

NEW YORK (AP) — A state audit has disclosed that the Metropolitan Transportation Authority increased its assets by $134.9 million in 1971 and nearly doubled its payroll.

The audit, released Sunday by State Comptroller Arthur Levitt, said assets rose from $254.3 million in 1970 to $389.2 million, primarily because of new construction and acquisition of 200 more commuter cars on MTA-operated lines.

Salaries and employee benefits rose more than $1 million from $1,274,947 in 1970 to $2,283,091.

An MTA spokesman said the increased payroll reflected manpower needs created by the takeover of operations for the Penn Central Railroad's Harlem, Hudson and New Haven commuter lines and the Staten Island Rapid Transit.

The audit showed a 1971 income for the MTA of $210.6 million, including state and federal grants totalling $167.2 million. Expenses totalled $67.2 million.

The state's mass transportation agency also operates the city Transit Authority; the Long Island Rail Road, which received 152 of the new cars last year; Stewart Airport near Newburgh; and Republic Airport near Farmingdale.

Districts' Share

Ulster County's share in the current distribution to school districts is $5,540,116.97, according to announcement made today by State Comptroller Arthur Levitt. The payment represents approximately 25 percent of the assistance due during the 1972-73 state fiscal year.

Six Priests Suspended By Upstate Bishop

BUFFALO (AP) — Six priests have had their privileges to celebrate Mass, to administer the sacraments and to teach theology withdrawn by Bishop McNulty, Bishop of the Buffalo Roman Catholic Diocese.

A spokesman said there would be no comment from the diocese on any aspect of the bishop's decision.

The six priests, who will all remain in the priesthood, are the Revs. Gilbert L. Heiman, Robert J. Kamman, James F.

Thomas F. Traverse, Gerald Walters and William G. Worthing.

Father Warthing said his differences with Bishop McNulty began in 1968 when he refused to accept transfer from a predominantly black, inner city parish to a suburban parish.

Father Warthing said he was asked to transfer because of his activity in BUILD, a local black activist organization.

"I am a priest. I intend to continue functioning as a priest," Father Warthing said. He added he will continue to work in core areas and will celebrate Mass and perform marriages outside of the established church.

Father Kamman's last assignment was at Cardinal Mindszenty High School in Dun kirk.

Father Heiman is in residence at the Oblates of St. Francis de Sales. The Oblates administer Bishop Duffy High School in Niagara Falls.

Father Walters was once at Our Lady of Victory Basilica.

Appellate Court Upholds Early Decision

ALBANY — The Appellate Division, Third District, has upheld a previous Supreme Court decision and the Veterans of Foreign Wars motion to dismiss a case against them brought by Peter Grant of Kingston who sought to prevent the construction of a new VFW home on the site of the former Rice property on Wurts and Spring Streets.

Corporation Counsel Aaron Klein said today that the Appellate Division unanimously affirmed an order of Supreme Court Justice A. Franklin Mahoney last October which upheld the conveyance of the public lands being a portion of the Rice Park to the heirs of the Rice family and the VFW.

The original complaint filed in June 1971, charged that the city acted illegally in conveying the land from the city back to the Rice Family (which had given the land to the city in 1946 for park purposes) because as such was exempt from the legislature which the suit contended must approve all transfers of public parks to private owners to municipalities.

Judge Mahoney ruled that the law did not apply to the city in this case. "The land was accepted by the city as a gift subject to a future estate."

The land was transferred back to the Rice Family by the city in 1970 after which the Rice Family donated it to the VFW for its new post home to replace the building on Delaware Avenue that was being taken by the Urban Renewal Agency to make way for the Kingston Arterial.

Bell Okays Order

ALBANY Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock) said this week that at long last it appears that the State of New York is making progress in cutting its welfare rolls while still providing the truly indigent and infirm with the necessary assistance for survival.

Assemblyman Bell said: "Through measures passed in the 1971 session of the Legislature, the 'work or else' order for employables on welfare issued last July, has resulted in placing thousands of persons in the job field with the prospect of more to follow. It is a promising beginning in the fight to solve one of the major problems faced by the overburdened taxpayer.

"In the first nine months of the program, according to the State Social Services Department, 61,872 welfare recipients were removed from the rolls under the requirement to work when employment is available. While 22,748 recipients were placed in jobs, another 39,124 were dropped from the welfare lists for failing to report for job interviews or other reasons."

Under the program those drawing welfare are divided into basic groups—those able to hold jobs and those who cannot.

"When the determination is made that a recipient is employable," Assemblyman Bell continued, "his check is sent to the local office of the State Employment Service where he must pick it up in person."

"When he appears, he is referred to a training program or to a job if one is available. If the recipient does not appear to pick up his check, he is deemed ineligible for welfare and in a case where he gets a check but does not take the job, his welfare eligibility is also withdrawn."

The Woodstock Assemblyman noted that as a basis for a study of the program's results the Department sampled 455 job placements during September 1971 to see how many of those placed in jobs were still working in December.

Figures showed that 32 percent of the jobs lasted one week or less and about one-third still had jobs at the end of November, but, the Department points out, the figures do not reveal a third and very important category — those who left the first job, found other work and have since stayed off welfare.

Assemblyman Bell concluded: "While the dollar and cents savings from the program are as yet undetermined, perhaps the biggest benefit is that we have made a beginning in which people are encouraged to seek employment. It seems to me that no able bodied employable person can rightfully object to having to pick up his welfare check at the employment office. Rather he should welcome such assistance in finding work."

"I must note that it has been through the continuing efforts of the Assembly and Senate Social Services Committees and the cooperation of the Legislature as a whole that this program and other important welfare reforms (some of which I will discuss in later columns) have been possible for the past 18 months. But there is still much to do in reforming the present welfare system, of course, and as your Assemblyman I pledge to continue to work hard in this area until the constant increase in welfare rolls comes to a halt."

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JULY 3, 1972

WASHINGTON — Jackie Robinson, the graying hero of the baseball diamond, was too trusting when he took Attorney General Richard Kleindienst and FBI chief Pat Gray at their word.

We had testified on Capitol Hill that Robinson wound up in the Secret Service files after he "visited a White House gate one day to inquire about the President's black capitalism program."

Disturbed over our testimony, Robinson sought an explanation from the Justice Department. Afterward, he told the press that Kleindienst and Gray had called our report "a lot of bull."

It's Kleindienst and Gray who are spreading the bull. We have a copy of Jackie Robinson's Secret Service file, No. C02 39700 01911, which contains a full report on the White House gate incident. We have offered to send the old slagger a xeroxed copy.

The Secret Service keeps a computerized file of people who might pose a potential threat to the President. Jackie Robinson was included on January 25, 1969—five days after President Nixon took office.

Robinson joined a group of blacks who visited the north-west gate of the White House unannounced. The Secret Service prepared a memo on the incident, assigned Robinson a file number and fed his name into the computer. He was listed, however, as "not dangerous."

The report on Robinson's appearance at the gate was prepared by Special Agent Thomas N. Schriver, who wrote that Robinson and his associates "arrived at 4 p.m. at the northwest gate of the White House, and stated . . . that they wanted to see the President . . ."

(Special Agent Charles) Zboril . . . and John Price,

White House staff, met with this group at the gate. Mr. Price invited Jackie Robinson, and only him, to meet him (Price) in the EOB (Executive Office Building). Robinson turned down this invitation.

"The group informed Mr. Price, the reason they wanted to see the President was that they wanted more jobs for the black people and also wanted the President to define black capitalism."

Footnote: A Justice Department spokesman explained that the Kleindienst-Gray response to Robinson's inquiry was based upon information furnished by the Secret Service. The Secret Service explained that Robinson's name was included in the data bank because he tried to call upon the President "without an appointment." But a spokesman added that the Secret Service does not consider Robinson a threat to the President.

Witely Advice

Mrs. Hubert Humphrey telephoned her husband the other day about his bruising campaign against George McGovern.

The two families had been the best of neighbors; Muriel Humphrey and Eleanor McGovern were fond friends; their children had grown up together. When George McGovern was sick, Hubert Humphrey had carried hot soup next door to his bedside.

"Look, daddy, I want you to carry on your campaign," Muriel told her husband gently. "But when it's all over, we must talk to the McGoverns and get together with them."

Not long afterward, Humphrey took McGovern aside for a few frank friendly words.

"You may feel that I've roughed you up on these issues," said Humphrey, "but my statements will look kindly compared to what Nixon and his people will say."

Humphrey suggested it was better for McGovern to have his views challenged now, so he could clarify them before meeting President Nixon in the finals.

"When this is over, if you win the nomination," said Humphrey, "you won't have to reach out. I'll be there."

Message From Carandiru
From out of grim, grey Carandiru prison in Brazil, a group of prisoners have sent us a poignant message through a network of intermediaries.

They learned in early June that they would be split up and transferred from Sao Paulo's Carandiru to other prisons throughout Brazil. Because they had dared to protest against inhuman conditions in the prison, they feared they were being transferred to break up their group and to kill them quietly and individually.

Their first appeals went to the director of the crowded prison and to the pastor of Sao Paulo's Roman Catholic Church, Archbishop Paulo Evaristo Arns, who had protected them in the past. They announced a hunger strike to protest the transfers.

But, as the smuggled message to us relates: "On June 7, three Dominican priests and three other political prisoners were transferred to Presidente Vancela (prison) on the Mato Grosso border." The prison is distant from any large city.

"Other political prisoners were also transferred to unknown places. The Brazilian military dictatorship intends to assassinate in the dungeons all those prisoners thought to be radical leaders."

The prisoners added that the military, which controls Brazil's worst prisons, had refused to allow Archbishop Arns to talk with the prisoners.

When this avenue failed, they sent word to us that "the survival of all prisoners" depended on help from all those "who love justice."

College Reforms

The turbulence on college campuses of the 1960s has given way to a satisfied feeling among most of the college students today. This was the finding of a Carnegie Commission on Higher Education. The report showed that 66 per cent of the country's undergraduates were "satisfied" with their lot in higher education and, in some cases, "very satisfied."

The fact that a third of the student body still was dissatisfied remains a warning of what may come should dissenters arouse this fringe to action again.

However, the commission did not anticipate any "revolutionary transformation in academic life" as a result of some student-faculty dissatisfaction, though it urged some reforms at the administrative and curriculum levels.

For instance, the recommendations included a three-year B.A. degree and a doctor of arts degree; a code of rights setting forth the responsibilities of faculty members and informing students of their right to receive instruction; looser academic programs to accommodate students who do not fit into the more structured programs; student appointments to curriculum committees in the departments in which they are majoring.

The commission did not go along with students who wanted to drop all grades, and all required courses in favor of electives only. For most students, the commission's recommendations will be very beneficial.

Doctors' Plan

By conceding that some form of national health insurance might be beneficial to the interests of the American people, Dr. C. A. Hoffman, newly installed president of the American Medical Association, opened the way to a health plan that would be acceptable to the profession.

At the same time, Dr. Hoffman strongly opposed the national health insurance proposal backed by organized labor, which would offer almost total medical service to every American. This has been introduced by Senator Edward M. Kennedy.

"The cost and abuse of such a plan would be tremendous," Dr. Hoffman said. The cost has been estimated at $70 billion a year. It would be financed through the Social Security system by both employer and employee contributions, as well as public funds. Raising the personal tax could be the blow that turns off workers, and their employers, now paying huge Social Security taxes.

Besides, as Dr. Hoffman sees it, recipients would demand services that were not warranted. He is leaving with three assistants to four countries that have national health plans—the Soviet Union, Sweden, Britain, Switzerland and maybe China.

"I want to see and judge for myself with the eyes of a practicing physician," he said.

OVERGENEROUS HOUSE — The House of Representatives refuses to be awed by two previous vetoes of health and education bills that authorized more money than the President had asked for. They just added $1.3 billion to an appropriation of $28.6 billion, $25.5 billion of which would go to health and education. Election year bounty is hard for the legislators to resist. They pass the buck to the White House.

FASTING FOR BETTER FOOD — After eight guards at a Bronx detention facility fell ill after eating lunch prepared by inmates, the 2,800 man union of guards in correctional institutions threatened to refuse to eat until civilian cooks were hired. Every mouthful was a danger.

MEN AND WOMEN OF YEAR—Religious Heritage of America, an interfaith organization, has made its current nominations. They are the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University, clergyman of the year; Jerome Hines, Metropolitan Opera singer, churchman of the year; Mrs. George M. Romney, wife of a Cabinet officer, churchwoman of the year. The nominations call attention each year to leaders in religious thought and activity.

HOPES FOR PEACE—Pope Paul VI, who has a worldwide network of listening posts through the Vatican diplomatic corps, believes that President Nixon's talks in Peking and Moscow and other East-West contacts encouraged hope for peace in the Middle East and Vietnam.

BERRY'S WORLD

"With all the bigwigs coming and going, visiting Wallace, I can't get any sleep!"

I won't grow old. Never. Dead, maybe, but not old. Age is in the mind. It's an assortment of cast-iron arteries which stultify the joy, the initiative, the work, the worthiness, and replace these with fear, timidity and uncertainty.

I have seen age in friends who were 40, and have witnessed buoyant middle-age in others who were 80. Some geriatricians assert that it is not within the will of those who age whether they will be old or not. Except in cases of illness, or severe loss of arterial elasticity, I must disagree.

People used to say, "You're only as old as you feel." Not quite. You're as old as you want to be. Some subconsciously enjoy quick aging because it removes responsibility and productivity from them. It tosses it onto the shoulders of the young. I once had a mother-in-law who decided to become old at age 49 and remained that way until age 77.

At 70, she could have driven a trailer truck. However, "Nanny" made herself unable to find the bathroom, and had to be led to it by her granddaughters. She could not climb stairs unaided, make a decision about her personal affairs, stop complaining without prefacing it with: "I hate to complain but . . ."

However, she could jog to a saloon a half mile away without puffing. And reserve a bigger smile for a strange bartender than she had for her friendly son-in-law. She wanted to be old when she was young, and she achieved it.

My father remained young until his 85th year. Perhaps too young. When he heard that ladies would arrive at his house with escorts, Big John tottered into his bedroom, ripped the bathrobe off at 4 p.m., shaved, showered, perfumed, put on a white shirt and dark tie, shined his best black shoes, and emerged just in time to fasten his blue-eyed gleam on the best broad in the house.

As a flirt, he was sheer murder. He had those young women thinking he was the greatest thing since vitamins. His mother lived to be 84, and refused to be old. She read books and played penny-ante poker until the last. Toward the end, she told me that the only aging she felt was in memory. "I've been reading those cowboy and Indian books," she said. "When I finish them, I put them under my bed. You won't believe this, but when I picked them up three months later, they read like new."

Her father wrote letters to her from Ireland with good penmanship until he was 97. Then he wrote: "Dear Mary: As I take pen in hand, I think this is the last letter . . ."

On the other side of the family, the Tiers and McSwiggins fought age. Grandpa Tier, near 80, was the first to point out to me that the people who lived the longest were "walkers." He ticked off a lot of famous names on his fingers, including old John D. Rockefeller and Henry Ford, men who remained on their feet until the final days.

He made a good case against the automobile. Abuse of wheels, he said, would shorten the life of man. Television was just coming in when he died, but he made the same indictment of the tube. "People spend too much time sitting and watching," he said. "They should be out taking a walk."

Grandma Tier fell on the ice in P.S. 20 schoolyard and broke her arm and hip. It didn't age her. Just made her mad. She lived to about age 78. The only thing that could age her was rheumatism. Grandma Tier's mother lived to be 90 or better, an old, pretty and alert woman in a rocking chair when I was seven.

Unlike my dog, who can trace his genealogy back 10 generations—but can't read it—I can go back only to great-grandparents. All of them were hardy peasants who knew how to work with their hands and who were sure that the height of success was to make a down payment on a house.

As you can see, I have observed and learned. I am convinced that, granted normal health, you can fight age with your feet and your will. That, and thorough medical examinations at least once a year—preferably every six months—should insure a reasonably long life with a minimum of debilitation and fear.

Nobody wants to live forever; the game becomes boring. But, until the day that my mental processes fall into ruin, I want to play the lover boy all the way . . .

The Viet War

WASHINGTON — President Nixon, by his announcement that American troops in Vietnam will have been reduced to 39,000 by September 1, makes good his promise of July 1969 that he would steadily pull out our forces from Indo-China. When he came into office in January 1969, there were approximately 540,000 American servicemen in Southeast Asia—the largest number that had been there since the war began.

The withdrawal program is a demonstration to the entire world that the United States means to reduce the nature of its participation in the war as it renders help to the South Vietnamese government in building up self-defense.

The United States has declared that its intention is "to withdraw all forces once a negotiated settlement is reached." But there will not be a total withdrawal until all prisoners of war are released and those missing in action have been accounted for.

The American government is disappointed that it has not had more cooperation from other governments in persuading the North Vietnamese to enter seriously into peace negotiations. But the belief is prevalent that both Moscow and Peking will be more active in pressing for a settlement as American troops are pulled out. The response to a refusal by Hanoi to make peace will be a continuance of the bombings and interference with the flow of supplies to North Vietnam. A considerable number of our naval vessels are in the vicinity, and plenty of American airpower is being provided to keep pounding away at key spots in North Vietnam until there are signs that a cease-fire will be accepted by Hanoi and the war really terminated.

The United States is anxious that there be meaningful negotiations and that there be a cease-fire. It is taken for granted here that South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong will have to find some basis for agreement on the form of government which will emerge after a treaty is signed. But the United States is expected to stand firmly behind South Vietnam in the demand that its right of self-determination shall be preserved.

While outwardly the governments in Peking and Moscow have not shown signs of exerting pressure on Hanoi, there has been some evidence of a renewed interest in the Paris parleys and a desire to find a way to stop the war.

The President also proclaimed that draftees no longer will be sent to Vietnam unless they volunteer, though the 4,000 currently there will stay until their duty is completed. Thus, for all practical purposes, young men being drafted now and in the future are assured that military service will not involve assignment to Indo-China except on a voluntary basis.

Undoubtedly the North Vietnamese have been assuming that, because 1972 is an election year in the United States, they could prolong the war and get a better deal. They had no idea Mr. Nixon would respond as he has to their massive offensive against South Vietnam. But the President will continue to order bombardment of ports and key supply centers with air power if the North Vietnamese keep on trying to take advantage of the fact that American combat troops have been pulled out and the South Vietnamese are left to carry on the ground fighting.

But with practically all American forces withdrawn from Vietnam and draft calls substantially reduced, Vietnam will cease to be the political issue that it has been in the past. It can hardly have the effect in the campaign that it would have had if large numbers of troops were still in Indo-China and many young men were being drafted for service in Vietnam.

President Nixon is convinced that the United States must not abandon the South Vietnamese, and he has given every indication that we will not desert the country for which Americans have made so many sacrifices. It appears, therefore, that Hanoi has nothing to gain by continuing the war and inviting more air attacks on the all-important supply lines which already have been seriously disrupted.

So it does look as if the Vietnam war may have to come to an end for practical reasons sometime in the next six months, and North and South Vietnam will find themselves compelled to think in terms of reconstruction after so many years of war.

Joseph Fielding Smith Dies, Was Latter-Day Saints Patriarch

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Joseph Fielding Smith, 95-year-old patriarch of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, died Sunday of a heart attack at his daughter's home.

Smith, spiritual leader for the world's 3 million Mormons, would have been 96 July 19.

"I guess it was just old age," said a church spokesman.

The spokesman said the church's council of the 12 apostles would meet at 10:06 a.m. Monday to make funeral arrangements.

Smith, the 10th leader since the church was organized in 1830, succeeded the late David O. McKay on Jan. 23, 1970, at the age of 93.

He was born in Salt Lake on July 19, 1876, a son of Joseph F. Smith, sixth president of the church, and Julia Lambson Smith. His grandfather was Hyrum Smith, patriarch of the church and brother of founder Joseph Smith.

Prior to becoming leader of the Mormons, Smith was a member of President McKay's first presidency. He had become a member of the Council Twelve Apostles April 7, 1910, and was president of that body until April 12, 1951.

Smith was known as a theological conservative and noted for his fundamentalist views. He appeared in public often up to the time of his death, speaking at temple dedications, university graduations and church conferences. He was scheduled to address the church's general conference in Mexico City later this year.

Smith outlived three wives, the first of whom he married in April of 1898. She was Louise Keyser. Funeral services, Kingston Chapel, Albany and Manor Avenues, Graveside services were held at Montrose Cemetery at 11 a.m. today.

JONES — Julia R. (Buckman) on Saturday, July 1, 1972 at Wiltwyck Gardens. Wife of Percy P. Jones, mother of Mrs. Warren (Marjorie) Robinson and Donald P. Jones, sister of Mrs. Viola Rappleyea and William H. Buckman Sr., six grandchildren and several nieces and nephews also survive.

Funeral will be held from the McCord-Leahy Funeral Home, 27 Smith Avenue, Wednesday, July 5 at 9:30 a.m. Thence to St. John's Episcopal Church where a requiem Mass will be offered at 10 a.m. Interment in Montrose Cemetery. Friends will be received today 7 to 9 p.m. and Tuesday 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

LANTRY — In this city July 2, 1972, Frances J. Legg, wife of the late Kenneth D. Lantry, mother of Mrs. Joan Hoffstater of Hurley and sister of Albert Legg of Kingston, eight grandchildren, one great grandchild and several nieces and nephews also survive.

Funeral services will be held from the A. Carr & Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl St. on Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. Relatives and friends are invited. Interment in Wiltwyck Cemetery. Friends may call from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. on Tuesday.

Emyle Shurtliff, who died March 30, 1968.

He married his second wife, Ethel Georgina Reynolds, on Nov. 2, 1908, and she died Aug. 26, 1937.

His third wife, Jesse Evans, whom he married April 1, 1938, died Aug. 3, 1971. She had been a former operatic contralto and concert singer with the Salt Lake Tabernacle Choir.

Two daughters were born to Smith's first wife, and his second wife bore him five sons and four daughters.

Smith was a strong promoter of church-related sports and was interested in flying. He was an honorary brigadier general in the Utah National Guard.

Smith left more than 140 children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

If normal church procedure is followed, his successor will be Harold B. Lee, a member along with Smith and N. Eldon Tanner, of the First Presidency, the executive group that runs the church.

Auditor Hired To Aid Welfare Administration

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) I State Social Services Commissioner, Abe Lavine says his department has taken a step that "will make a major contribution toward assuring efficient welfare administration in New York State."

The department announced Saturday that it had hired an auditor from the federal space agency to fill a newly created, $36,000 a year position to check appropriateness of welfare payments and conduct audits related to all aspects of public assistance.

Martin Sacks, 51, now director of the management office of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington, will head the new Office of Audit and Quality Control in the State Social Services Department, Lavine said.

Hunt-Glass Nuptials Told

Cynthia Anne Hunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Parks Hunt of Troy, became the bride of Peter Thomas Glass, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Glass of West Hurley, June 16 at Church of the Covenant, Averill Park.

The Rev. James Borden officiated at the ceremony assisted by the Rev. John T. Ryan S.J. Jeanine Budesheim, violinist, provided traditional wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a Victorian-style gown of hand-smocked ivory crepe trimmed with mauve velvet ribbon and lace. The gown was made by the bride's mother. She carried a nosegay of pansies and begonias.

Suzanne Willa Hunt, sister of the bride, Troy, was maid of honor. She wore a purple and pink print Victorian gown and carried a bouquet of daisies and purple statice.

Tania and Leigh Ann Hunt, nieces of the bride, were flower girls in yellow and green print Victorian gowns. They carried bouquets of daisies and buttercups.

Gilbert Glass, father of the bridegroom, West Hurley, was best man. Ushers were David Leigh Hunt, brother of the bride, Rome, and Gerard Gilbert Glass, brother of the bridegroom, West Hurley.

A reception was given at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is a senior at Utica College of Syracuse

MRS. PETER T. GLASS
(Cynthia Anne Hunt) (Frumkin Studio)

University where she is majoring in Asian Studies. Her husband, an alumnus of Ontario High School, will be graduated in August from Marist College in Poughkeepsie. When they return from their wedding trip, they will reside at Bearsville.

Wed in Outdoor Ceremony

Cathryn Wells, daughter of Mrs. Joan Wells of Woodstock and Harry K. Wells of New York City, exchanged nuptial vows with Steven D. Turk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie D. Turk Jr. of Saugerties, Saturday, June 17 in an outdoor ceremony at the home of her mother, 18 Glasco Turnpike, Woodstock.

Town of Woodstock Justice Kevin Sweeney officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white slipper satin gown in princess styling. Sleeveless and with a V-neckline, the gown featured hand-embroidered yellow roses. She wore a matching, below-the-waist veil trimmed in lace and carried a bouquet of white daisies.

Mrs. Bonnie Geppert of Kingston was matron of honor in a yellow satin slipper gown styled similarly to the bride's. She wore a matching, shoulder-length veil and carried a bouquet of yellow daisies.

Robert T. Curry of Saugerties was best man.

A reception for some 70 guests was given at Kurta's Restaurant, Glenford, immediately after the ceremony.

The bride, a graduate of Ontario High School, is returning to Ulster County Community College as a student in the fall. Her husband, an alumnus of Saugerties High School, served three years in the U.S. Marine Corps; was awarded the Purple Heart Medal after being wounded in action in Vietnam. He is a graduate of Ulster County Community College and is employed by Rock Construction Corporation; plans to return to college to earn his degree.

The newlyweds are presently on a wedding trip to Florida.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post:

Recently a neighbor and I attended a church wedding of another neighbor's daughter. She slipped into the side pew, but the usher extended his arm to escort me down the aisle. My friend called to me and said to step out of the aisle and be seated in the rear of the church as we were not guests (only friends who had seen the girl grow up).

I was always under the impression that anyone could view a wedding if interested, as it is a thing of beauty.

Feeling conspicuous I asked the usher to please deposit me in the rear immediately, although he kept insisting it was quite all right. I would not wish this to happen again as it was embarrassing. Will you please give your opinion on this matter?

Vera

Dear Vera:

If this should happen again, tell the usher firmly that you are not an invited guest — simply an old friend — and would prefer slipping into a rear pew. It is perfectly all right to attend a wedding in this way, but it is not right to allow yourself to be placed in a seat farther up — one which should be given to an invited guest.

DEAR MRS. POST:

When having monogramming done, a purse (or instance, does a married woman use her middle initial or her maiden initial? MARILYN

DEAR MARILYN: A married woman's monogram consists of the initials of her given name, her maiden name and her last name. Often the last name initial is in the center and is considerably larger than the other two. Or they may all be the same size, with the last name at the end.

Lecture on Oriental Philosophies

Buddhism, founded by Buddha, "The Enlightened One", about the Sixth Century B.C., and other Oriental philosophies will be the main lecture topics of Frank E. Becker at the Main Street library in Phoenicia Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

A retired teacher of the New York City school system after 35 years, Mr. Becker now resides in Shokan. His talk, which is being given at the invitation of the Rev. Ralph Darmstadt, president of the library board of trustees, will also include some of the aspects of voodooism, described as a class of mysterious rites or practices, of the nature of sorcery and witchcraft.

This unusual program is free to the public and is expected to attract a capacity audience.

Meanwhile, plans are being formulated for the library board's annual meeting and election of officers on Monday, July 10, at 8:30 p.m., which will feature a talk on area history by Alf Evers, well known Woodstock author.

Refreshments will be served and all area residents are invited.

At 49, She's Worried About Getting Pregnant

DEAR ABBY: I am a married woman, age 49, but physically I am like a girl of 20. My doctor tells me that I have absolutely nothing to worry about insofar as getting pregnant is concerned. He says the oldest woman he has known to get pregnant was 47, and that was very unusual.

Abby, I'm afraid to let my guard down because my family is grown and the last thing I want at this time of my life is another baby.

What do you or your readers know about this? The medical books tell me nothing. My doctor thinks I am foolish for worrying.

WORRIED SPITLESS
DEAR WORRIED: Although the chances of becoming pregnant at age 47 are greatly reduced, it is by no means impossible. My doctor tells me that he has heard of a woman bearing a child at age 52, so keep your guard up, lady.

DEAR ABBY: Something in your column caused me to recall something I hadn't thought of in years. Perhaps it's worth sharing:

Many years ago, when potato chips were first on the market, they weren't available in our small town, so my mother would order them from the big city near us for special occasions. She had ordered some for her bridge luncheon, but they did not arrive on time, so as a joke mother sliced raw potatoes, and put a few on each plate.

When the plates came back to the kitchen, there wasn't a potato slice to be seen! But for weeks afterwards we kept finding them in flowerpots, vases and under the sofa cushions.

JEAN P. IN MONTANA
DEAR JEAN: There's nothing new under the sun. People are still doing it.

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a wonderful guy, and we are talking about getting married, but a problem has come up.

He says that before we get married he would like to go out with some other girls just to see what it's like. He says it's not that he doesn't love me, but he would just like to have a little variety before he settles down.

I suppose I should be glad that my guy is so honest with me about this, but I am by nature a jealous person, and I don't want to even think about my guy being with discussing it with you is adolescent.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I invited two couples to our home for dinner one night last week. One couple had been married for five years, and the other couple was engaged.

Before dinner, both couples were in each other's arms, off and on, kissing passionately. Now, Abby, I have no objections to couples showing affection to each other, but they really acted like they were all alone.

I am not an old prude myself. I'm 25, have been married for four years, and I love my husband every bit as much as either of those girls love their guys, but I think there's a time and place for everything.

Once, I jokingly said, "Okay, kids, knock it off." My husband gave me a dirty look, and after they left he lectured me.

Was I wrong, Abby? Please tell me. That one couple (the engaged pair) made me blush.

WONDERING
DEAR WONDERING: I'm in your corner.

Flood Damage... Figures Listed

KINGSTON The magnitude of the destruction suffered by Rapid City, S.D. and its environs is becoming increasingly apparent as Red Cross disaster specialists have announced damage figures. Mrs. Evelyn D. Hubbard, Executive Director of the Ulster County Red Cross Chapter announced.

The preliminary survey shows 700 homes destroyed. Another 1,700 suffered major damage and the number of homes receiving minor damage was put at 1,900.

The tabulation also listed 500 mobile homes destroyed and 825 with major damage. A total of 150 small businesses were destroyed or suffered major damage.

More than 6,000 families have suffered loss in the disaster and it is estimated that Red Cross will expend in excess of $3 million to help them recover in South Dakota alone.

With the majority of the homeless taken in by friends and neighbors, Mrs. Hubbard said that Red Cross shelters at their peak of the emergency cared for only 450 persons. The number of victims fed daily, however, was 3,000. The number of persons receiving mass care from fixed and mobile Red Cross disaster units was put at 20,000.

Meanwhile, the more than 100 Red Cross disaster specialists rushed into Rapid City and other stricken areas intensified their efforts to help the disaster victims. The various service centers set up throughout the affected three-county area continue to provide victims with the immediate assistance they need.

A flood victim who came Tuesday to the improvised office in the St. John Elementary School gymnasium was Mrs. Lillian Mattison whose 65-foot mobile home was forced wildly across the street into a useless clutter of mass destruction which now surrounds the local bowling alley. Fortunately, the Mattisons and their three children were away from home when the flood struck, but returned to find their home gone and all their possessions ruined.

Her husband, Sgt. Richard Mattison, has returned to duty at Ellsworth Air Force Base at Sturgis and her children are scattered in the homes of friends. Each day, after making rounds to see that they are okay, she returns to her task of picking up pieces of their lives.

Tuesday, she had two goals. One was to see about a temporary home in which to reunite her family. The other was to see someone from the Department of Housing and Urban Development about temporary housing. Before she left the Red Cross office at St. John's, Mrs. Mattison had orders for new clothing, cooking utensils and other furnishings and bedding and beds for her family.

In a letter to President Nixon, Red Cross National Chairman said, "Few times in this century has the American Red Cross been faced with a catastrophe of the magnitude in Rapid City." He assured the President that the nationwide resources of Red Cross have been mobilized to help the stricken as speedily and efficiently as possible with food, clothing, shelter and medical assistance.

Mrs. Hubbard added that contributions for flood victims are asked to be made through the local Red Cross Chapter at 210 O'Neil Street, Kingston

Department Head Seeks Presidency

POUGHKEEPSIE Environmental Association and Dr. Henry M. Muschio, has served as planning chairman for the Associated Colleges of the Mid-Hudson area. Regarding the past president Dr. Muschio said he felt the presidency needed "a fresh, new approach rather than what's happened in the past" and gave as an example a "newer job-oriented approach rather than traditional kinds of liberal arts objectives."

Trustees have formed a committee to select the next president. Dr. Muschio lives in Hyde Park with his wife and four children. He received his bachelor and master's degrees from Syracuse University and taught at Fairleigh Dickinson University while working toward his doctorate.

Dr. Muschio has been at Dutchess for six years, and said that he felt he was qualified by virtue of his education and experience in both teaching and educational leadership. He is 41 years old and is founder of the Dutchess County

Summer Camp Schedules Play

RHINEBECK A continuing tradition at Camp Rising Sun, the unique international summer camp for boys, is the annual play presentation and the boys from all over the world will present "HMS Pinafore" this year on July 28.

The Gilbert and Sullivan play will begin at 8:30 p.m. at the camp off Route 308 east of the Village of Rhinebeck, the 43rd year that the camp has produced a play.

This year the production will benefit the Northern Dutchess Day Care Center and the Northern Dutchess Hospital. Tickets are $2 per person. Countries represented this

Flood Relief Program Set

MODENA The Memorial United Methodist Church of Modena has announced that it has set up a flood relief program for victims of the recent deluge in New York and Pennsylvania. Requests for aid from other churches in the mid-Hudson region also went out with the announcement.

Money donations, which will reportedly be used for the purchase of canned goods, and donations of diapers, canned goods, and personal hygiene items are to be left at Hasbrouck Hall, next to the church on Routes 44-55 in Modena.

Mosquito Control Crews Behind

POUGHKEEPSIE
 The Dutchess County Mosquito Control Program, sidelined temporarily by the effects of Hurricane Agnes, has resumed operations.

A spokesman for the program, operated under the Department of Health, said the prolonged wet weather had put the crew behind schedule. Crews will work additional hours in July and August because flooding of low areas causes mosquito populations to exceed normal proportions, he said.
 During May, 1,382 sites were checked for mosquito larvae and 372 were treated. The adult mosquito treatment began June 1 and, before adverse weather, 5,256 acres were treated in the towns of Poughkeepsie, Pleasant Valley, Wappingers, Hyde Park, LaGrange, Fishkill, East Fishkill, Rhinebeck, Clinton, Red Hook, Milan, Beekman, Pawling, and Unionvale. All towns in the county will be covered in the summer program, the spokesman said.

Area Drug Commission Commends Proposals

KINGSTON — The Ulster County Drug Commission feels that the proposals to alleviate the expanding drug abuse crisis in our area, as put forward by Ulster County District Attorney Francis J. Vogt, merit further consideration and discussion by law enforcement, judicial, social service and rehabilitation agencies.

The proposals were outlined in a two-part series in The Daily Freeman on June 27 and 28, and call for firmer handling of addicts who commit crimes by our court system.

Vogt pointed out that addicts are often allowed, with non-addicts with similar offense records. In short, addicts very often are sent to short-term residence treatment centers, while non-addicts are sent to long-term penal confinement for the same type of infractions. While not criticizing the sincerity of effort of anyone involved in the process, Vogt pointed out that the short stay in the rehabilitation centers returns the criminal-addict to society much too soon — with little hope of him not returning to his former habits.

The Drug Commission endorses Vogt's conclusion that the increased pressure on drug pushers that would be present in a system where the convicted pusher, no matter what his background, knew he would be serving a rather lengthy prison sentence, would result in decreased availability of drugs. This situation, in turn, would not lead to increased numbers of addicts voluntarily turning to treatment sources before they run afoul of the law.

Under our present system the Commission knows he stands an excellent chance of being offered a relatively lenient rehabilitation program as an alternative to penal confinement, in spite of the number and nature of his offenses. The addict who selects treatment in this situation has proven to be a much poorer candidate for rehabilitation, in most cases, than those who volunteer for other reasons.

While endorsing the district attorney's proposals, the commission feels that it must not do so without some reservations. In particular, it feels that there is a great danger in over-simplifying a situation that is amazingly complex in its social, economic, psychological and medical aspects. For example, every addict is technically a "criminal" because he must possess illegal drugs and or implements in his addiction, and almost all addicts are "pushers" in one form or another. What level of pusher are we to confine? Estimates of heroin addicts alone in Ulster County run well over 1,000 individuals. If we are to seek out, properly arrest, convict and confine close to all of these persons, where are the resources to carry this out? While drug addicts are most certainly responsible for a high percentage of crime in our society, we must be careful not to attribute all of those ills to this segment of our anti-social population. The commission feels that unnumbered of addicts voluntarily turning to treatment sources

WASHINGTON, D.C. Javits and Congressman Fish's standards which would be page bill entitled "Standards for Retarded Children, New York Rep. Hamilton Fish, Jr., in inspection tour of Willowbrook established under the Act. The Bill of Rights for the Mentally Retarded," contains a comprehensive program for members of a Federal task force to study conditions in the institution last spring following reports of inadequate treatment in the state school. The 200 page bill, among others things, would authorize $15 million a year for the next three years to help the states costs of conducting comprehensive surveys operating and analyses of the cost of facilities and training existing residential facilities into compliance with The major portion of the 206 the National Association for Fish said.

OCS-Teacher Affair... Over, But Not Forgotten

WOODSTOCK — As far as the Ontario Board of Education is concerned, the Robert Lippman suspension affair is over; there are a number of Woodstock area residents, however, who promise that the matter won't be forgotten.

Since Lippman was dismissed by the Board of Education on June 19, a committee of concerned citizens has banded together to fight that dismissal, and generally to keep future tabs on the activities of the school board.

The group held a meeting recently at Deane's in Woodstock. The estimated 100 persons who attended formed a steering committee, discussed the Lippman Freeman, "I'll like to continue case, and vowed to attend in Wednesday's board meeting in stay in the Woodstock area, but

Schirick Appointed Training Director

KINGSTON — Alfred J. Brocco, general chairman of the 1973 United Way Campaign has announced the appointment of Edward A. Schirick as training director. Schirick's responsibilities will be the training, orientation, and distribution of campaign material to all solicitors.

In making the announcement Brocco said: "Once again the United Way is most fortunate to have Ed Schirick as its campaign training director. The proper training and education of all campaign workers is imperative for a successful campaign." The training forums will commence Aug. 1.

Born in Kingston, Schirick is a graduate of Kingston High School and Villanova University, where he earned a BA in Political Science. He served as community representative for the United Way in 1970. Since January 1971, he has been employed as administrative assistant at Kingston Hospital. Active in community activities, Schirick served as co-chairman of the City of Kingston Cancer Crusade in 1971, is a member of Kingston Kiwanis Club and Wiltwyck Country Club. He and his wife, Cathleen, reside at 78 Downs Street.

The United Way of Ulster County, which serves 15 member agencies, will commence its campaign Wednesday, Sept. 13.

More than 800 volunteers are expected to participate in the campaign.

Expos Walk Away With It

MONTREAL (AP) — Ron Fairly has long been known as one of the most feared clutch hitters in the National League. So, when Fairly strode to the plate Sunday in the ninth inning with the bases loaded and two out, the fans at Jarry Park were buzzing in anticipation.

Fairly, a veteran, faced New York Mets' rookie right-hander Bob Rauch in a classic confrontation between the cagey veteran and the youngster just coming up.

No doubt Fairly had faced several similar situations in his career but for Rauch the showdown came in his second major league appearance.

While Fairly was at the plate, he stepped out of the batter's box twice, once because a bug flew in his face and the second time because his hands were wet. It just gave Rauch more time to think about the jam he was in and it gave the crowd a chance to razz the young right-hander.

Finally on a 3-2 pitch, Rauch fired a fastball and missed the strike zone. Fairly walked, forcing in pinch-runner Carl Morton and Montreal won 4-3.

"I knew Fairly was going to wait me out," Rauch said. He added that he never had pitched before such a large, noisy crowd before and that it bothered him.

"It turned out to be a good day," said Fairly, who was responsible for driving in three of Montreal's runs.

"He (Rauch) was having trouble with his control. He threw me nothing but fastballs. They had me taking after the first two balls. I was taking on three and nothing and three and one."

The Expos had carried a 3-0 lead into the top of the ninth inning. Fairly broke a scoreless tie in the bottom of the fourth when he singled home Ron Hunt and scored Montreal's second run coming home on an infield out by Terry Humphrey.

Fairly, shifted to right field from first base this season following the Rusty Staub trade, then surprised the Mets in the eighth inning with a squeeze bunt that scored Hunt, who had been plunked by a pitch to lead off the inning.

But the Mets' who had taken six straight games from Montreal, took advantage of Tim Lincecum's error on a ground ball hit by Ed Kranepool.

Fairly rifled the ball high over first baseman Mike Jorgensen's head and into the Mets' dugout, allowing John Milner to score from second base. Milner had led off the inning with a double.

Kranepool, who wound up at second after the error, moved to third when Wayne Garrett doubled to right. Kranepool might have scored but held up at second to see if Fairly was going to catch the ball.

A sacrifice fly by Ken Boswell scored Kranepool and then Garrett came in on a run-scoring single by pinch-hitter Willie Mays.

"I should have caught Garrett's ball," said Fairly. "I didn't get a good start on it and I slipped. I was lucky I didn't get hit on the head with it."

"I bet you Fairly would like another chance on the hit by Garrett," said Manager Gene Mauch. "But he had some say. Whatever had to be done he did it."

Yanks Went the Left Way

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees did things up right—or, rather, left—against the Cleveland Indians Sunday.

They threw three left-handers at the bedraggled Indians—Fritz Peterson in the first game of the doubleheader and Rob Gardner and Sparky Lyle in the nightcap—and came away with a 6-1, 5-2 sweep.

That gave the Cleveland club a miserable 4-26 record against left-handed pitchers this season, but Peterson, Gardner, Lyle and Mike Kekich, who beat the Tribe on Saturday, don't expect to hear from that outfit in Cleveland that has been known to sue over what it considers mistreatment of Indians.

While the Indians went home with an eight-game losing streak, the Yankees headed West today with a five-game winning streak and three games apiece on tap against Oakland, Minnesota and California.

The winning streak comes on the heels of a losing skein of similar length, which in turn followed a six-game winning streak.

"We wiped out the disaster we had last week," said Manager Ralph Houk. "We're back to where we were before those five losses, 5½ games out of first place."

The Yankees are in third place in baseball's American League East. The recent stretch of lean years has taught Houk not to be greedy, so he isn't looking for big things out West.

"If we can win five of those nine games we might be over the hump," he said. "That would put us in position to reach .500 on our home stand before the All-Star break."

Sunday's bright spots for the Yankees were a 25-hit attack and six strong innings by Gardner, making his first start of the season in the second game, before Sparky Lyle, the super reliever, came on to record his 16th save, equaling his total last year with Boston.

Lyle warmed up once in the opener when Peterson surrendered seven of the nine Cleveland hits during the middle three innings.

"Pete came in the clubhouse during the opener," Gardner reported, "and said he was a little afraid he might have to use up Sparky before my game."

Light-Hitting Bob A Hero Once Again

By United Press International

It isn't often that a 147-hitter is a hero in the clubhouse of the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates.

"In fact," admitted 147-hitting Bob Robertson after the Pirates beat the Chicago Cubs 7-4, Sunday, "on this club you pretty much have to hit .300 to make the starting lineup."

But Robertson shared the Pirates' hero's role Sunday with Manny Sanguillen (whose credentials for making the starting lineup are .332) because he homered and drove in two runs while playing third base for the first time since June 12, 1970. Sanguillen had a home 2-for-4 day with a homer and a single in the victory which gave the Pirates a one-game lead over the New York Mets and knocked the Cubs 5-1-2 games off the pace in the National League East.

"I feel fortunate getting a chance to play," said Robertson, who by-passed super sub Jose Pagan when he replaced the ailing Rich Heber at third.

"If my batting average meant anything to me, I'd find a high bridge to jump off. My job is to hit homers and drive in runs."

"Robertson will be at third base for several games while Heber is recuperating," commented Manager Bill Virdon.

"It's a good way to get Robby and Willie Stargell in the lineup at the same time and give Willie a chance to rest his bad knees playing first base instead of the outfield."

Sanguillen's homer gave the Pirates a 4-1 lead in the fourth inning and Robertson's homer made it 5-2 in the sixth. Bruce Kison, with relief aid from Bob Johnson and Ramon Hernandez, received credit for his third win while Bill Hands suffered his fifth defeat.

The Cubs executed a round-the-horn triple play in the seventh inning when Sanguillen grounded to third baseman Ron Santo with runners on first and second.

Using the vernacular of a sports writer, which he often said he would like to have been, Nixon says on choosing his all-time best hitter: "Ted Williams has to get the nod."

"I am convinced that had he not been denied the opportunity of playing during the five years he served with distinction in World War II and Korea he would go down in the record books with Ty Cobb and Rogers Hornsby as one of the three greatest hitters of all time," says Nixon.

On DiMaggio, Nixon says the Yankee Clipper is remembered primarily as a great hitter.

"The many times I have seen him play at Yankee Stadium and at Griffith Stadium against the Senators I remember him even more as a superb fielder."

Nixon selected Williams, the former Boston Red Sox star who now manages the Texas Rangers, and DiMaggio in selecting his All-Time, All-star baseball team.

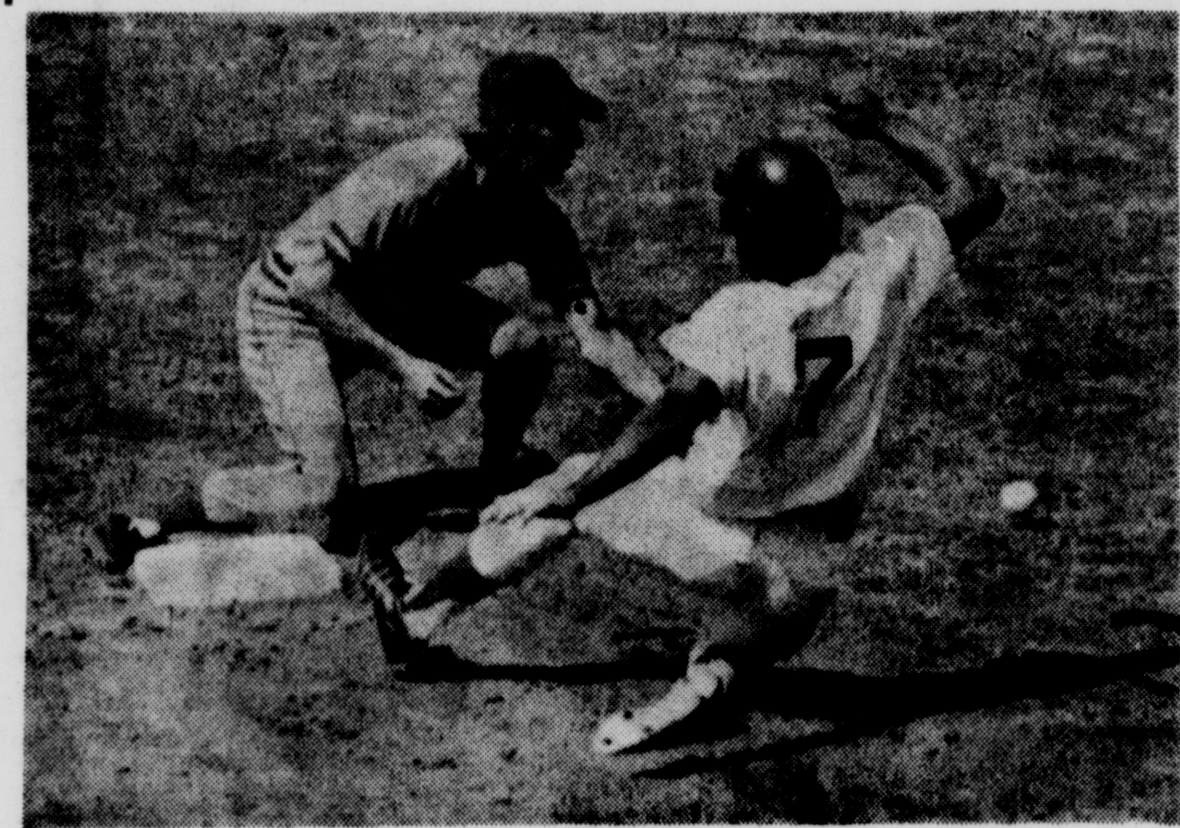

The President took few chances—he selected four teams for a total of 84 players—an American and National League team for the years between 1925 and World War II and former squads for the years after.

After selecting the teams, carried exclusively by the Associated Press, he picked the best of the best, so to speak.

In addition Williams and DiMaggio, he named Baltimore's Brooks Robinson as the best infielder, Los Angeles Dodger Sandy Koufax as best pitcher and L.A.'s Maury Wills as best base-stealer.

Lou Gehrig, former New York Yankee first baseman who died of a muscle disease in 1941, was Nixon's choice as most courageous and Jackie Robinson, the first black to play major league baseball when he joined the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947, as the best all-around athlete in the game.

The reports of baseball's demise seem grossly exaggerated.

Battered by a series of polls and battered first by a pre-season player strike and then by a rain-soaked month of June, the national pastime has somehow survived. Now it is July—baseball weather, at last—and Baltimore and Detroit are proving that if you give the fans something exciting to see, they'll come out to see it.

The Orioles and Tigers, battling for first place in the American League's East Division, climax a four-game showdown series in Detroit tonight. The first three meetings have attracted 119,500 fans to ancient Tiger Stadium—an average of a shade under 40,000 per game.

A crowd of 37,635 showed up Sunday and saw Baltimore trim the Tigers' lead down to one game with a 7-2 victory. If the Orioles can win tonight in the nationally televised fourth game of the nose-to-nose confrontation, it will leave the two clubs in a flatfooted tie at the top of the division. A Detroit victory would restore the two-game Tiger lead.

Elsewhere in the American League Sunday, New York swept a doubleheader from Cleveland 6-1 and 5-2. Boston took a pair from Milwaukee 15-4 and 3-2 in 11 innings. Minnesota split a twin bill with Chicago, winning 6-4 before losing 2-1. Texas and Kansas City divided two games, the Rangers winning the first 7-5 and the Royals taking the second 8-3, and Oakland trimmed California 3-1.

Sunday's version of the Oriole-Tiger showdown was somewhat less dramatic than Detroit's 2-0 victory Saturday, which ended with a leaping catch by Jim Northrup that turned what looked like a game-tying home run into a game-ending double-play in the ninth.

Boog Powell crashed a three-run homer in the first inning and Don Buford added a two-run shot in the fifth to key the Baltimore victory.

The Red Sox unloaded for 18 hits against Milwaukee in the first game of their doubleheader with Rico Petrocelli and Reggie Smith driving in five runs apiece.

Ben Oglivie, who had three hits in the first game romp, contributed three more in the nightcap as Boston completed the sweep.

Richie Scheinblum, the American League's leading hitter, had six hits in nine at bats for Kansas City in the doubleheader split with Texas. Cookie Rojas also had six hits for the Royals.

Texas took the opener with RBI-singles by Ted Kubiak and Frank Howard snapping a 5-5 tie in the 10th inning. Hal King's seventh inning homer tied it for the Rangers, who blew an early 4-0 lead.

Scheinblum took care of the nightcap against his former teammates, collecting a homer, double and single and scoring three times.

Minnesota clipped Chicago in the first game of their doubleheader with Bobby Darwin and Eric Soderholm driving in two runs apiece. Jim Kaat, 10-2, got credit for the victory with late relief help from Wayne Graner and Dave LaRoche.

Nixon: Ted, Joe Tops

WASHINGTON (AP) — Are Ted Williams and Joe DiMaggio the greatest hitter and outfielder ever to take to a baseball field? President Nixon thinks so.

Using the vernacular of a sports writer, which he often said he would like to have been, Nixon says on choosing his all-time best hitter: "Ted Williams has to get the nod."

"I am convinced that had he not been denied the opportunity of playing during the five years he served with distinction in World War II and Korea he would go down in the record books with Ty Cobb and Rogers Hornsby as one of the three greatest hitters of all time," says Nixon.

Seagren . . . The 19-Foot Vault Is Next

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—A few years back after he cleared 17 feet in the pole vault for the first time, Bob Seagren predicted 18 feet was a strong possibility.

And now that he has cleared 18 feet, and in fact 18.5-3.4 for another world record at the U.S. Olympic Track and Field Trials, Bob says a 19-foot vault is imminent.

Seagren took the world record to within six inches of 19 feet under near-perfect weather conditions Sunday as America's track stars continued to shatter old standards and threaten others in a smashing prelude to the Munich Olympics later this summer.

Seagren, who aspires to an acting career, was emotionally spent from his record performance but he did a good job of masking his feelings.

"I'll tell you," said the handsome 1968 Olympic champion, "this has been an emotional day. I'm unbelievably tired, simply drained and this won't all sink in for a while."

The 25-year-old six-footer from Monterey Park, Calif., then collected himself and talked about the possibility of a 19-foot vault.

"I honestly don't think my record will last long," he said. "A 19-foot vault is near. I think I could have had a good chance at it this time, if the competition hadn't lasted so long and it had been earlier in the day."

Seagren took only six leaps all day. He passed at two lower heights and then went over on the first try at 17-4 3/4, 17-8 1/2 and 18-1 1/2. He missed twice at 18-5 3/4, and then made it on the third try for the record.

"I felt good despite the emotional factor," said Seagren, "but in this sort of competition it's important to make it over on the first try. Still on my record try, I didn't have one of my better vaults. I didn't have good speed but I got a good pole plant. Then I started losing momentum as I got close to the bar but somehow found it again with a second effort. I think I brushed the bar with my arm but it stayed up there."

Seagren and Kjell Isaksson of Sweden shared the old mark at 18-4 1/4 set on May 23 in a special head-to-head tussle at El Paso, Tex.

Seagren said he plans to take things easy for a while and then pick up the pace again leading to the Munich Games in late August.

Nothing, they say, repeats itself like history, and in Seagren's case it's a point well taken. Four years ago at the Olympic trials at South Lake Tahoe, Calif., Bob took the world record of 17-9 and then went to Mexico City and won the Olympic gold medal with a vault of 17-8 1/2.

"I hope it's a repeat," he smiled. "I couldn't ask for more."

In the vault competition, Seagren, Steve Smith of Long Beach State, Jan Johnson of Alabama and Dave Roberts of Rice, the AAU and NCAA champ, all cleared 17-8 1/2 and the bar was raised to 18-1 1/2.

Johnson and Smith cleared it to become the fifth and sixth men in the world in the 18-foot club but Roberts failed and thus was left off the Olympic team.

The pole vault was by far the most exciting event on Sunday's five final-events show.

Ralph Mann, the former

Brigham Young star, took second billing when he set an American record of 48.4 in winning the 400-meter hurdles. Richard Bruggeman of the Ohio Track Club was second in 48.6 and Jim Seymour of the Southern California Striders was third in 49.3 to also win Olympic berths.

Other winners Sunday included Mike Manley of the Oregon Track Club in the 3,000 meter steeplechase. Frank Shorter of the Florida Track Club in the 10,000 meter run (28:35.6) and Bill Schmidt of the Army in the javelin (270.6).

Doug Brown of Tennessee and Steve Savage of the Oregon Track Club were second and third in the steeplechase. Jeff Galloway of the Florida Track Club and Jon Anderson of the Oregon Track Club chased Shorter across the line in the 10,000, and Milt Sonsky of the New York AC and Fred Luke of the Husky Track Club finished behind Schmidt in the javelin.

Thus, 15 more athletes won spots on the Olympic team Sunday for a total of 30 thus far. On Saturday night, Jay Silvester took the discus (211-2). Larry Young won the 20-kilometer walk (1:35:56.4). Eddie Hart won the 100 meter dash in the world record equalling time of 9.9. Dave Wottle equalled the world mark of 1:44.3 in winning the 600 meter dash and John Craft won the triple jump with a leap of 56.2.

There is only one event on today's program but it'll consume most of the day. That is the first five events of the decathlon. The second five events are on Tuesday's program along with the 50-kilometer walk.

Mrs. Berning Still Has Her Poise

MAMARONECK, N. Y. (UPI)—Marriage and motherhood haven't drained the golfing talents of Susan Maxwell Berning.

Mrs. Berning, one of the few married girls on the LPGA tour, may have lost some of the strength she had a few years ago when she was one of the promising newcomers on the tour, but she proved Sunday that she has lost none of her poise.

Trailing by four strokes entering the final round of the USGA Women's Open golf championship, Mrs. Berning posted a one-under par 71 and overhauled third-day leader Pam Barnett down the stretch to win the tournament for the second time in her nine-year pro career.

Mrs. Berning's 72-hole score was 11 over par 299 over the rugged 6,266-yard Winged Foot Country Club course, which was one stroke better than Miss Barnett, Judy Rankin and Kathy Ahern. Miss Barnett, who had a three-stroke edge entering the final round, had a 76 Sunday. Miss Rankin posted a 73 and Miss Ahern had a 70, the low score of the tournament.

Betty Burfeindt was three strokes off the pace at 302 and Gloria Ehret, four-time Open winner Mickey Wright and amateur Jane Booth were five strokes back at 304.

Ever since she became Mrs. Dale Berning on May 18, 1968, the former Susie Maxwell's career has blossomed. She won her first Open at Fleetwood, Pa., only months after she was married and her triumph Sunday comes 19 months after she left the tour to give birth to a daughter, Robin.

"It took me a year to get my strength back after the baby," said Mrs. Berning, who plays only half the LPGA tour, "but now I feel a lot stronger. I feel a lot stronger than I did last year but I'm still not as strong as I used to be."

Mrs. Berning, who travels the circuit with her husband, daughter and 17-year-old baby-sitter in a mobile home, was very surprised with her victory. She had all but given up hope of winning after the first day when she had a 79.

"I really didn't think I had a chance to win it at all, and when I three-putted 15 today I figured any chance that I might still had I had lost," said Susie, whose round of 71 was one of only five sub-par rounds recorded in the four-day event.

Susie's three-putt on No. 15 had dropped her two strokes behind Miss Barnett, who was playing a pair of twosomes behind Mrs. Berning. But when Pam also bogeyed the 15th, Susie got the stroke back.

After saving par on No. 16 by sinking a tricky uphill seven-foot putt, Mrs. Berning gained a tie by canning a 20-foot putt for a birdie on the dangerous 200-yard, par three 17th hole. The 17th had been the most difficult hole for the girls throughout the tournament, and so it was no surprise when Miss Barnett bogeyed the hole to give Susie the lead.

Mrs. Berning parred the 18th and when Miss Barnett's second shot was short of the 18th green, it was all over and Mrs. Berning was $6,000 richer.

Miss Barnett, who had started the day with birdies on the first two holes, lost control of her game on the easy par 3 sixth hole when she hit her tee shot into the sand trap and took a bogey four. After paring No. 7 she preceded to bogey eight, nine and 10.

"Those three holes were the turning point," said a disappointed Pam. "Number eight really upset me. After that I just tried to keep getting even with the golf course but I couldn't."

Not many of the girls could. The winning score of 299 was one of the highest ever in the 27-year history of the Open and the course drew praise from the champion.

"It takes a good golf course like this where everybody has a chance for me to still have been in contention after shooting a 79 opening day," said Mrs. Berning. "The girls would play better golf if we had more golf courses like this on the tour."

Lanny: No. 1 Holiday Driver

CHAGRIN FALLS, Ohio (UPI)—Lanny Wadkins' reputation of being one of the best drivers on the PGA tour has borne itself out here as the 22-year-old rookie is tied with Larry Hinson for the 54-hole lead in the $150,000 Cleveland Open golf tournament.

Wadkins, of Richmond, Va., shot a four under par 67 in the third round Sunday as he missed only one fairway because of his accurate driving. This was especially important because of the pick, clean and place rules under which the tournament is being played at the rain-soaked Tanglewood Country Club.

"With the place rule you don't have to worry about the flyers," said Wadkins, a former U.S. Amateur champion. "I hit the fairway woods excellent. I'm rolling the ball real well and I feel real comfortable with my putter right now."

Wadkins, who took a bogey five on the third hole, rallied with six birdies over the par 71, 6,907 yard layout to card a 34-33—69 as he and Hinson were tied at seven under par 206.

Hinson, 27, of Douglas, Ga., who led the first round and was tied with Miller Barber after the second, turned in another good round of 34-35—69 but he complained of feeling weak over the last eight holes, which were played in the rain.

"I just ran out of energy," said Hinson who carded only two birdies in his third round. "I think it might have been because I was hungry, even though I had a huge breakfast but no lunch."

One shot off the pace at six under par 207 was Cesar Sanudo, who had four birdies, two on the front nine and two more on the back nine.

"My attitude is so good that my whole game has turned around," said Sanudo, a six-year veteran from El Cajon, Calif.

"I played well, drove well and had only 30 putts. I've been putting like a demon since Lee (Trevino) gave me one of his putters at Kemper. It finally helped me get over the fence."

Bruce Devlin, who won the Houston Open in May, carded six birdies and a bogey for a 66, leaving him five under for the tournament at 208, while tour rookie David Graham, Brian Allin and Wilf Homenuik—who had a hole-in-one on the par 3, 165-yard third hole using a five iron—were tied at 209, four under par.

"I didn't see the ball go in, but I heard the roar," said Homenuik, of Winnipeg, Ont., who recorded the first hole-in-one on national television in the 1963 Canadian Open.

"They told me the ball hit on the green, took a couple bounces and rolled in."

Graham, who teamed with Devlin to win the World Cup team championship for Australia in 1970, was playing so badly at Pebble Beach in the U.S. the third round. He had two eagles, three birdies and 14 putts on the back nine.

"I finally started making some putts," Mitchell said. "The nine holes coming in were my best. I felt like I had my old form back."

Defending champion Bobby Mitchell had a 39-30—69 to go one over par 214 at the end of four under par.

American stars as Chris Evert and Billie Jean King in the Wimbledon Championships.

The 20-year-old defending champion from Australia wasn't saying what she had in mind, but she let it be known that the target was Miss Evert, the teen-age prodigy who has electrified this famed old tournament.

Both Evonne and Chris have to win one more match before they can meet in a semifinal that would pack the fabled all-England Club.

"She'll be tough, all right. But she's someone new to me, and that means I'll be able to try out my experiment. No, I won't say what it is," Miss Goolagong said.

Miss Goolagong's game has been erratic in her progress to today's quarter-finals. She dropped the first set and was in danger of losing to Russia's Olga Morozova in the fourth round.

Evonne's opponent in the quarter-finals is Francoise Durr of France, who has lost only six games in three matches.

Miss Evert, the 17-year-old bombshell from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., stuck to her practice of declining to speculate on what might happen when she plays Miss Goolagong.

In the quarter-finals, fourth-seeded Miss Evert meets unseeded Patti Hogan of La Jolla, Calif. Chris and Patti paced the U.S. Wightman Cup team to victory over Britain here last month, winning all their matches.

Three other American girls have made the quarter-finals—Mrs. King of Long Beach, Calif., Nancy Gunter of San Angelo, Tex., and Rosemary Casals of San Francisco.

Billie Jean, three-time Wimbledon champion and seeded No. 2 this year, plays Britain's Virginia Wade, seeded seventh and Mrs. Gunter and Miss Casals are paired against each other.

Two American men are in the quarter-finals—top-seeded Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., and Jim Connors, the 19-year-old rising star from Belleville, Ill.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—John Newcombe, winner of Wimbledon the past two years, seemed to be telling the tennis world that July was his month as he won the singles and teamed with fellow Australian Tony Roche to capture the doubles titles in the $50,000 Holton Tennis Classic Sunday.

Newcombe, seventh-seeded, defeated unseeded Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia, 6-3, 6-3, in the season's first tournament on the World Championship Tennis (WCT) tour. He won $10,000 for his first place finish.

Newcombe was barred along with 31 other members of the WCT from competing in this year's Wimbledon, because of a dispute between the International Lawn Tennis Federation (ILTF) and WCT's head Lamar Hunt.

Pilic had upset fourth seed Tom Okker, of the Netherlands and fifth seeded Cliff Drysdale, of South Africa, before he ran into the devastating service of Newcombe.

In the first set each held service till the fifth game when a six minute rain delay was called during Pilic's service with Newcombe holding the service breaking point. Newcombe slammed Pilic's serve after the delay cross court for the game winning point.

Newcombe also broke Pilic's service in the ninth game and won the set.

Pilic later complained that his back stiffened up after the delay and effected his serve, but he went on to say, "John really played well," and that he deserved the victory.

In the second set Newcombe once again held his service while breaking Pilic's in the sixth game with the help of two double faults.

Newcombe then returned to the court with his partner Roche and promptly won the doubles title from another pair of Australians John Alexander and Phil Dent with another straight set victory, 7-6 and 6-3.

The four time Wimbledon doubles champions, Newcombe and Roche, were only seeded fourth in the tournament because of surgery on Roche's elbow last fall.

The first set was deadlocked 6-6 and forced a tiebreaker, in which Roche and Newcombe were down 2-4 before they rallied to win 7-5.

Four Games at Chambers Field

Junior Soccer League Opens

KINGSTON — At four minutes of the second half, Glen Link banged one through to boost Johnny-on-Spot to an early lead, but Court's John Robinson hadn't begun to roll. Eight minutes later Robinson found his stride to knot the score, then pumped shots through at the 20, 27 and 30 minute marks as Court's made their debut a successful one.

The third contest was another one-sided affair with an experienced Deitz squad racking up 11 goals. Dave Mendez booted three and Steve Davis two more to lead the parade on the Cosmos' net. Other scores came from Sean Schick, Bill Davis, John Ivankovic, Randy Hobes and Ken St. John.

Rich Foss, a Rhinebeck High School veteran, tallied a pair of markers, and schoolmate Dave Decker added another in the Dolphins' nitecap win. Dirks lone goal came from Tom Berry.

In succeeding weeks, the Junior Soccer League will play three Sunday games at the Chambers field and the fourth at Rhinebeck. The two division setup places Dirks' and Johnny-on-the-Spot behind Courts and the Dolphins in the Colonial Division, and Deitz and Franz in the Metropolitan Division ahead of Oehlers and the Cosmos.

Ramos Is Champ, But Rematch Must Be Set

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—The World Boxing Council (WBC) Sunday decided to declare Mando Ramos of Los Angeles its new world lightweight champion, but it also gave Spain's Pedro Carrasco a fourth chance at the title.

WBC president Ramon Velazquez of Mexico said Ramos has already signed for his first defense of the title against Mexican national lightweight champion Erubey "the Ape" Carmona, a leading world contender.

Roberto Duran of Panama, who defeated Scotland's Ken Buchanan last week, is recognized as the world lightweight champion by the World Boxing Association (WBA).

The winner of the Carmona-Ramos bout will then have to face Carrasco within four months to settle the title "once and for all," Velazquez said.

Ramos scored a split decision over Carrasco in Madrid last week but was involved in a controversy later when a drug test conducted by the Spanish Boxing Federation proved positive on Benzadrine, an illegal stimulant.

Petty Seeks Jinx Breaker

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Richard Petty, who never won the Firecracker 400, feels he has a good chance to break the "jinx" in Tuesday's $105,335 NASCAR race.

Petty, NASCAR's all-time leading winner, will start on the second row with teammate Buddy Baker when the green flag drops at 10 a.m. EDT for the 400-mile chase over Daytona's 2.5-mile tri-oval.

Petty has abandoned his familiar Plymouth in favor of a Dodge on the superspeedways this year.

We feel like in the long run we will be better in the Dodge," explained the Randleman, N.C., driver. "The Dodge is one to two miles per hour faster and in a long race that makes a difference."

Petty, who celebrated his 35th birthday Sunday, feels about six drivers have a legitimate chance to win the Firecracker — pole sitter Bobby Isaac, David Pearson, Bobby Allison, Pete Hamilton, Buddy Baker and himself.

"There's going to be lots of competition in this one," drawled Petty. "About six cars can run with each other, and I expect that's what will happen."

Petty was not too concerned that Isaac, the defending champion, qualified two miles per hour faster than any other car with a speed of 186.377 mph in his Dodge.

"He always qualifies two to three miles per hour faster than what he's going to run," said Petty. "They like the prestige of being the fastest qualifier."

Baker, Petty's teammate, also said he wasn't concerned about the qualifying speeds.

"You've got 400 miles to run," said Baker. "The pole is nice, but the important thing is to win the race. That's basically what the Petty theory is."

Isaac took things easy in practice runs Sunday after his crew put a new engine in his Dodge.

"I feel we have as good a chance as anybody here," said Isaac.

LeeRoy Yarbrough earned the No. 16 starting position during qualifying runs Sunday with a speed of 175.997 mph in his Ford. Cecil Gordon qualified 17th with a 175.757 clocking in a Mercury.

The final 10 positions in the 40-car Firecracker field will be determined today.

Bobby Allison set a new qualifying record of 108.066 mph in his Mustang to capture the pole for the Paul Revere 250 for Grand Touring cars which will kick off racing activity at midnight Monday.

Allison will drive in both races. H.B. Bailey will start on the outside front row after qualifying his Firebird at 107.370 mph.

In French Grand Prix

Stewart 1st

C L E R MONT-FERRAND, France (UPI)—Brazilian driver Emerson Fittipaldi could not catch winner Jackie Stewart of Britain at the French Grand Prix Sunday, but he settled for a second-place finish that enabled him to claim a commanding lead in the World Drivers Championship.

Stewart in a Tyrrell was untouchable as he won the 38-lap race on the twisting Charade track high on a mountaintop in central France.

The nine championship points he earned for the performance put him into second place with 21, but a distant 13 behind Fittipaldi's leading total of 34.

Stewart took the race lead for good on the 20th lap after leader Chris Amon of New Zealand in a new Matra had to head for the pits with a punctured tire.

Stewart's time of one hour 52 minutes 21.5 seconds over the 306 kilometers (189.7 miles) race was good for an average speed of 163.5 kilometers per hour (101.3 miles per hour).

Fittipaldi, who crossed the finish line in 1:52:49.2, said afterwards he could not catch up to the Scotsman because his Lotus was not hitting right.

Amon, after falling back to eighth spot, fought his way up, again breaking the lap record on his way to finish third.

Francois Cevert of France, driving in spite of an injured wrist which hampered him in time trials Saturday, brought his Tyrrell in for fourth spot to give his team two in the first six.

Ronnie Peterson of Sweden in a March came in fifth.

VICTORY LEAP — Jockey Sandy Hawley makes a leap from his horse Gentleman Conn after winning the Quebec Derby in Montreal Sunday. The race was the 23rd running of the class open to three-year-olds foaled in Canada. (UPI)

Coughlin No-Hits KPA, 27-0

Rock Wins, 1-0, in 11

KINGSTON — Two games at different ends of the spectrum marked play in the Babe Ruth League Saturday.

In the senior loop, Rock Construction scored a 1-0 win over J & G Dry-Wall. Charles Car Wash, while in the junior league, Kevin Coughlin pitched a no-hitter as the Kiwanis team demolished KPA, 27-0.

The senior tilt had J & G's Mike Droulette and Pete Boyd hooked up in a zero battle with Rock's Bob Marz and Ed Glynn. The zero finally turned into a one for Rock in the bottom of the 11th when Glynn reached on a base on balls and moved to second on a passed ball. John Logendyke then singled to right but a great throw from Larry

Turck, Johnson Tie For President's Cup

KINGSTON — An 18-hole playoff will be scheduled later this week to decide the championship of the Wiltwyck Country Club President's Cup Tournament which ended in a tie Sunday.

John Turck, playing with an 11 handicap, and Paul Johnson, carrying a 23, wound up the regulation 36 holes with a 143 total. Turck posted rounds of 83-82-11-72-71-143 while Johnson carded 95-94-23-72-71-143.

Jack Parnett was one stroke off the pace with 79-81-8-71-73 to take third place. George Antonietta was fourth, posting 88-88-15-73-146, and Ed Werbalowsky came home fifth on the strength of a 92-85-15-77-70-147.

Al Mazzotta and Wally Pfeiffer were in sixth place tie. The former had rounds of 94-96 with a 21 handicap for 73-75-148. Pfeiffer, playing with a 14 handicap, shot 88 twice for a 74-74-148.

Three of the clubs better golfers were in the eight-nineteen tie. Leon Randall, hampered of late with a neck ailment, nevertheless shot 76-77-2-74-75-149. He was matched by scratch shooter Harvey Bostic's 77-72.

No Agreement On Pocono Race

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Racing officials from the United States Auto Club and Pocono International Raceway met more than four hours Sunday in an attempt to reach agreement on re-scheduling the 500-mile race at the Pennsylvania track.

However, in a joint statement after the session, the four representatives said nothing was settled.

Officials of the year-old Tri-Oval Track in the scenic Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania cancelled Sunday's scheduled race because of flooding left by Hurricane Agnes as the storm moved northeastward. The officials said they lacked adequate safety personnel—who were tied up in emergency clean-up operations after the storm.

SAUGERTIES group will circulate through the crowd carrying signs urging an end to the war. A petition with the same purpose will be circulated.

At first, the Saugerties Jaycees, sponsors of the July 4 event in Saugerties, invited the Peace Committee to march in the parade, but that invitation, according to Atkinson, was later withdrawn.

Atkinson said the purpose of his group's appearance in Saugerties July 4 will be to "draw a contrast between the war in Vietnam and the kind of war we have been taught that America fights—like the Revolutionary War." He added, "This is our day too. We're Americans too."

Atkinson emphasized that "Our intention is not to agitate." He said members of the group will carry signs "that are not inflammatory." He added, "We just want our feelings known."

Jacques Brel is alive and well and living in Paris
JULY 3-8

JACQUES BREL

Just who is this Jacques Brel, whose work has seemingly justified a whole evening's entertainment? He is a Belgian Chansonier, who, living in Paris, has become the voice of Paris, evoking better than anyone else that city's dim-lit cabarets, the night life of its shadowy back streets, the strange haunting poetry of the late-evening bistros. He is a poet-musician, troubadour-composer, writer-performer whose special skill and magic bring a sense of depth, imagery and understanding to such subjects as love, loneliness, death, hypocrisy, pity and joy. And, for a while, he shares the magic of that special world with his audience.

"Jacques Brel is Alive and Well and Living in Paris" introduces the songs of Brel in theatrical form through four performers. The show is a breakthrough in theatrical innovation and it is to the great credit of Eric Blau and Mort Schuman, who conceived the original idea, that the show opened to the rave notices that it did and continues to receive rave reviews all over the world.

"Impassioned and Powerful" wrote New York Times critic Clive Barnes. "Capable of stirring an audience almost to a frenzy."

"A crystalline evening of songs that have lyrical beauty and startling intuitions," said TIME Magazine.

City Projects Work Continues

KINGSTON

Uptown and Downtown urban renewal projects are going ahead "more or less on schedule," Alderman Clifford G. Sinsabaugh (D-10th Ward), chairman of the Common Council's Urban Renewal Committee announced today.

"Everything is going along smoothly," Sinsabaugh said, indicating that the continued rain during the past weeks has not considerably hampered construction work.

Minor corrective work on the construction on East Strand and Ferry Street in the Downtown Urban Renewal Project is being performed, it was reported, following a meeting of the urban renewal committee and urban renewal officials Thursday night. The corrective measures had to do with crowding of the streets, Christy J. Larios of Brinrier and Larios, engineers for the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, indicated. Larios said such corrections were not out of the ordinary.

Your Horoscope

Tuesday, July 4

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An unusually good day and evening to put in motion those plans for action that you have been considering, but not gotten around to yet. Combine the best from the past with some electrifying new ideas and methods that will bring you up to date, and thus carry the best of the past and present into the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can put certain plans in motion now that can make your life more productive and happy. Join those social groups that are geared to your pattern of life. Avoid one who is a trouble-maker.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can enjoy new pleasures now if you are more modern in your thinking. Doing something kind for those you are found of can bring you much happiness as well. Evening is good for reading.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you listen to the views of good pals today, you can gain new respect and greater happiness, so get out to see them early. Plan just how to secure the things you want most in the future. Think constructively.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Doing something of a civic nature is fine on this holiday. Show your appreciation of the country you live in. You understand better how to get ahead in the coming days, so make concrete plans now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can have leisurely discussions of new outlets and ideas that will make your future brighter. You have the inspiration to achieve your ambitions. Making many new contacts is fine, but choose those best suited to your ideas.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can handle certain responsibilities well today and should do so. Plan how to make much happier in the future.

Show ingenuity where pleasure is concerned. Think.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you are detached in thinking about how to straighten out any arguments with associates, you find you can do so objectively. Out with good friends later to the pleasure you like. Don't get home too late.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have an opportunity to do a great deal to improve your future, so don't waste time at silly amusements. Show courtesy to those who work side by side with you. Avoid one who gossips a great deal.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have the time to go out for the amusements that really give you pleasure, so make the most of this opportunity. Get busy handling creative matters as well. Avoid some situation that is unpleasant.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Home and kin are most important to you now, so do whatever will improve conditions and harmony in that vital realm of your life. Do some entertaining tonight, or else rest and plan entertainment for tomorrow night. Reading can be fascinating, too.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Do some visiting around to places and with people who can help you greatly. Put more vitality into your daily living. Hobbies are fine in p. m. in the company of good friends, relatives.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Although you want to make repairs, etc., be sure you study your savings account well first. One who has much data will now give it to you. This can soon add to present assets.

Show Beat

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—Irving Wallace's new novel "The Word," is tops on the bestseller list at the moment, and he's taking advantage of that exalted position to try and muscle through a provision in the movie deal no author has ever wangled.

Wallace wants the right of director-approval. The novelist and his agent are juggling three offers from studios for right to "The Word." And he says he is holding out for director approval. After what happened to his last book, "The Seven Minutes," at the hands of director Russ Meyer, Wallace's insistence is understandable.

"We thought of trying for writer-approval," Wallace says, "but we decided that the director is the most important element so that's what we're fighting for."

He'd like to see "The Word" fall into the hands of somebody like Franklin Schaffner or Norman Jewison of even David Lean, who is reputedly looking for a property that doesn't involve huge sweeps of sand ("Lawrence of Arabia") or mountains ("Dr. Zhivago") or sea ("Ryan's Daughter"). He'd also like to see George C. Scott or a serious Jack Lemmon in the lead but he's decided that the casting isn't as important as the director.

Wallace is just as excited about the movie version of one of his early novels, "The Man," dealing with the first black president of the United States. For years that one has intrigued movie-makers, but somehow the deal always fell through—people like Sidney Poitier, Sammy Davis Jr. and Harry Belafonte wanted to do it but it never happened.

Now ABC has made it with James Earl Jones in the lead. Wallace says it was made as a movie for TV, but turned out to be so powerful ABC decided to release it theatrically.

S. Viet Forces Striking Back With Growing Confidence

SAIGON (AP) — With growing confidence, South Vietnamese armed forces are striking back in hopes of reversing the flow of Hanoi's massive invasion. And while some success seems ultimately assured, the outcome is likely to fall short of what President Nguyen Van Thieu called "the final battle."

Some military and political observers believe the three months of fighting since the North's offensive started, although the bloodiest of the war in some respects, have proved nothing except—once again—that a military solution is impossible in Indochina, and the only way to a cease-fire and a settlement is through negotiation.

Gaining favor now among allied officials appears to be a view that the North Vietnamese, having tried their utmost but failed to achieve any of their major objectives, will pull back to refit for yet another try.

Some think this next attempt might come as early as next year, but many U.S. officers are so optimistic as to believe the Communist command has finished itself militarily for up to four years.

Nevertheless, the South Vietnamese also are facing severe problems.

The enemy push has again reshaped the borders of the country in the Saigon region, with the Communist command that situation even if the offensive should end tomorrow," said one U.S. official.

The success of the North Vietnamese drive, to whatever degree it extends in the final analysis, also is likely to have an eroding effect on the confidence of the people, which the Saigon government has tried hard to cultivate.

One thing working in the South Vietnamese government's favor in this respect, say officials, has been the failure of the Viet Cong to fulfill their role in the Hanoi plan.

Communist documents in the hands of allied officials are the basis for this belief, telling how the Viet Cong did not mobilize their forces in strength but spread them too thinly and dissipated their effect, and also reporting that Viet Cong political agents and cadres moved too slowly in organizing the political side of the offensive.

Many U.S. officials contend that the Viet Cong are not an important force except in certain areas, in particular the coastal provinces and some areas of the Mekong Delta, where they have always been strong.

The idea that North Vietnamese own forces are finished for a while stems in large part from what allied officers believe are their battle losses.

Although it is conceded that no one on the allied side really knows what enemy losses are, and so-called body counts have never proved reliable, some senior commanders believe Hanoi has lost as many as 50,000 men—mostly to air and artillery strikes.

Although North Vietnam has never had a provable manpower problem during the war, most military men insist it is having one now. They say most of the Communist units which began the offensive at full strength have not been able to keep up their strength with replacements, especially in the face of B52 strikes and other mass-killing barrages.

There are reports of enemy units being unable to carry out their missions because of heavy manpower losses, but ordered to do so anyway.

Allied officials also say evidence indicates the North Vietnamese soldiers now are much

AP Analysis

India, Pakistan... An Agreement

SIMLA, India (UPI)—The leaders of India and Pakistan, following five days of intense summit conference talks, signed an agreement early today returning to Pakistan all territory lost in the December war with India except the area along the Kashmir cease-fire line.

The agreement was signed in a five-minute ceremony at this Himalayan hill station 240 miles north of New Delhi by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India and President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto of Pakistan. All calls for withdrawal of all troops from their mutual borders and renunciation of the use of force in settling future disputes.

Present troop positions in the border state of Kashmir, bitterly disputed since the two countries won independence from Britain 25 years ago, will remain frozen under the pact pending future negotiations. Later talks will also take up normalization of relations, repatriation of war prisoners, trade and scientific and cultural exchanges.

The two leaders declined official comment on the nature of the agreement, although Bhutto told reporters: "It is more than an agreement. It is an understanding and I am satisfied."

Six hours earlier he told newsmen the talks had reached an "unfortunate deadlock." But he and Mrs. Gandhi held further negotiations and signed two copies of the four-page agreement at 12:40 a.m. (10 p.m. Sunday, EDT).

Mrs. Gandhi and Bhutto appeared weary at the signing ceremony but both managed smiles. A small group of officials applauded lightly when the two leaders shook hands after signing the documents.

Troop withdrawals along the troubled border are to begin 30 days from ratification by constitutional procedures on both sides.

A transcript of the agreement, released nine hours after it was signed in Himachal Pradesh, an estate called Barnes Court in the days of British rule, said the line of control resulting from the Dec. 17, 1971, cease-fire line "shall be respected by both sides without prejudice to the recognized position of either side."

"Neither side shall seek to alter it... (and) both sides further undertake to refrain from the threat of use of force in violation of this line."

Indian troops in their victorious war with Pakistan captured 5,619 square miles of Pakistani territory. New Delhi will return 4,765 square miles in the desert areas of Sind and Kutch and 374 square miles in the Punjab sector but will continue to occupy 480 square miles of Kashmir.

Among the issues to be worked out later at a "mutually convenient" time by both sides, according to the pact, is the repatriation of about 93,000 Pakistani war prisoners held by India.

Bhutto wants them all back but Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, prime minister of what was once East Pakistan but emerged as independent Bangladesh after the war, has demanded war crimes trials for an estimated 1,500 of them. India thus far has been unsuccessful in persuading Mujib to drop his demand.

N. Ireland Cease-Fire On Brink of Collapse

BELFAST (UPI)—A weekend of Protestant-Roman Catholic gun battles and gangland-style executions that claimed six lives pushed Northern Ireland's week-old cease-fire to the brink of collapse today.

The latest deaths raised the known fatality toll since violence erupted in Northern Ireland three years ago to 399.

In the sixth known killing of the weekend, the bullet-riddled and hooded body of a man was found in a car abruptly abandoned near Belfast's Crumlin Road jail early today.

Security officials said the victim might be Augustus "Gusty" Spence, a 39-year-old Protestant who was serving a life sentence for murdering a Catholic bartender. Gunmen had kidnapped Spence a few hours earlier as he was returning to the jail from a two-day parole granted so he could attend his daughter's wedding.

Both the IRA and the British army emphasized they considered the cease-fire still in force despite the heavy gun battle Sunday morning in Belfast's Old Park area and fresh outbursts early today between Protestants, Catholics and troops across the M1 superhighway leading to Dublin.

Children playing soccer found the bodies of two Protestants Sunday night on a cricket ground in Belfast's Old Park district, near the scene of an early morning fight between Protestants, Catholics and British troops. They were identified as truckdriver Hugh Clawson and busdriver David Fisher, both 30.

Like an unidentified body of a man dumped from a car soon afterward in the Forth River area of west Belfast, they had been shot through the head, the hallmark of extremist executions.

Two more victims of the first weekend since the Irish Republican Army (IRA) declared a cease-fire last Monday were Daniel Hayes, 43, a Catholic, and Paul Jobling, a 19-year-old Jehovah's Witness from England who had been doing voluntary work at a Belfast camp for poor children.

The wave of killings occurred as the Protestant paramilitary Ulster Defense Association (UDA) created the first barricade Protestant "no go" areas in Northern Ireland in protest against the British army's failure to wipe out IRA-

OUR ENERGY CRISIS PART 5

With only about six per cent of the world's population, we consume about 30 per cent of the world's energy. And our use is growing. Electric power requirements in the United States are forecasted to quadruple between 1970 and 1990. Total energy consumption in our country has doubled during the last 20 years and is expected to double again in only 15 years. If we are facing critical energy shortages in 1972, where are we going to get all the energy we will need in the future?

Several things have to be done, such as increasing exploration and production of conventional energy resources in our own country. We'll have to manufacture synthetic fuels. Energy production from nuclear fuels will have to be greatly increased. We'll also have to develop entirely new sources of energy, for both the immediate future and over a longer time span.

Looking to the end of this century — less than 28 years away — nuclear fusion holds the potential for satisfying man's electric energy needs for thousands of years. Providing an adequate supply of clean energy for the next decade, however, is a much more urgent problem.

Synthetic oil and natural gas can be extracted from coal, our most abundant energy resource. Gas also can be manufactured from liquid hydrocarbons and significant quantities of oil can be produced from oil shale. A fast-breeder nuclear reactor can generate electricity and produce more fuel than it consumes.

These are some of the things which are being worked on now, but additional research and development is needed in almost all instances to make these processes economically and technically feasible for commercial use.

Unfortunately, we can't accomplish all of these things fast enough, and energy production in our own country is expected to fall short of demand for many years. Large quantities of oil and natural gas probably will have to be imported from foreign countries. This is a questionable pursuit and next week we'll discuss why.

While steps are being taken to increase energy supplies, it is important to stretch the energy reserves which are presently available. That's why we've been asking our customers to conserve all forms of energy. Remember, use energy wisely.
